Never give any advice, says he and "Don't worry. I have always done what I wanted to do. And have never worried."

Never worry and you will live long. Worry poisons the mind and kills in the end.

BUT THE GENTLEMAN aged 105 is aged 105, and that's all you can say about him. To do what you don't want to do, and to worry may mean shorter life. It also may mean doing something worth while.

TO BE A HARRIMAN or a Hill, open up great territories, conquer a Salton Sea, make a short cut across Salt Lake, help create the great Northwest and die too young, is better than never worrying and living to 105.

THE REGULARLY established airplane service between London and Berlin makes the 600-mile trip in four hours. Those machines, headed this way, would cross the Atlantic in 20 hours.

That is something to interest this nation, which talks and spends, but makes no airplane progress.

AT SPENDING, we are very efficient. On airplane service since the war this nation has spent more than four hundred million dollars. How much of that went in waste and graft, do you think? For our $400,000,000 spent since the war, and about one thousand millions spent during the war, we have, according to official testimony just 20 airplanes fit to be of service in war.

THAT MAKES our good machines average us about seventy million dollars each, which is not cheap. They build them in Europe for $1,500. If the country spends $400,000,000 more you may be sure that Calvin Coolidge will get some flying machines for the money. Why not buy, for a start, 1,000 machines abroad where they know how to make the kind that fly?

THAT PREDICTED 1925 drop did not visit the stock market yesterday. Almost everything went up, railroads leading, cotton and wheat following. Call money used in speculation dropped to 3 per cent., and all was serene.

The lambs have not gained full headway yet. They are thinking, dear little things. Once they get really started there will be busy moments for stray bears.

ELMER SCHLESINGER, part of the inside works of Chadbourne, Stanchfield and Levy, lawyers, with clients of the big kind, says: "This is going to be such a boom year as nobody living has ever seen." He is a cool, not excitable young man. And he is probably right. Whatever else you do, be careful not to sell short. "That way madness lies." Don't gamble.

WHEN THE LAWYER writes "Hereto I set my hand and seal" he refers to the ancient custom, as old as Egypt, of sealing documents with the print of the thumb.

Three thousand years before Christ, finger prints and thumb prints were used for identification. The Chinese use finger prints to identify armies of laborers after they are paid off.

MR. BOGREN, expert of the Navy, has been making finger prints of mummies, and says that in all the thousands of years no two human beings have had finger prints alike.

What's more important, no two have had brains alike, and that accounts for change and progress.

BANDIT SHOOTS CHIEF

Lexington Police Head Is Wounded in Gun Battle With Bank Thieves

In a gun battle with three bank robbers at Lexington Centre, early today, Chief of Police Edward Leavitt was shot through the thigh and then slugged into unconsciousness.

The robbers escaped in a big touring car, but it is believed that at least one of the men was injured by Chief Leavitt's fire.

The men were surprised by the chief while tryig to force an entrance to the Lexington Co-operative Bank on Massachusetts avenue, within 100 yards of the Lexington police station.

The injured officer is at the Symmes Arlington Hospital, unable to give any description of the robbers on account of the fact that the street lights in Lexington are turned off at 1 o'clock, after which the streets are in total darkness.

CHIEF ATTACKS GANG.

Chief Leavitt gave an unusual exhibition of pluck in attacking the robbers single-handed. The first shot fired by the robbers struck the chief on the left thigh, but he kept going, emptying his revolver as he made his way amid the hail of bullets.

It was when he entered an alleyway in pursuit of one of the gunmen that he was struck down. His revolver empty, the nervy officer had nothing with which to defend himself.

About 4 a. m., the chief, who is

BOY HERO AND CHUM DROWN

Loses His Life at Southbridge in Vain Effort to Save Another

Southbridge, Jan. 7.—Armand Galipeau, a 13-year-old hero, lost his life today in a futile effort to save his chum, Raymond Julian, aged 11. Both were drowned in Quinebaug River while skating. The accident occurred shortly before 9 a. m. near the stone arch bridge on River street.

Julian, the younger boy, skated onto thin ice near the bridge broke through and sank. His cry brought Galipeau to his assistance. Jumping in, skates and all, without thought of his own safety, Galipeau tried to reach firm ice, but the swift currant swept both under. Their bodies were found two hours later by the police.

Lawrence Talbot, aged fourteen, of Walcot street, heard the boys shouting for assistance. He ran for life preserver hung on a nearby building, but both victims had disappeared before he had a chance to toss the life belt to them.

Raymond Julian was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Julian of River street, and the gallant Armand Galipeau was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Galipeau of Cliff street.

Gen. Wood Wants to Quit, Says Capital Rumor

Washington, Jan. 7 (I.N.S.)—Gentral Leonard Wood, Governor General of the Philippines, has indicated to President Coolidge his desire to retire from the post, according to persistent reports circulated here today.

Neither the White House nor the War Department would confirm the reports.

THREE TAKEN TO SAFETY ON LADDER

An elderly woman was one of three persons rescued by Boston firemen and carried down ladders to safety, when fire swept through the three-story apartment and business block at Nos. 208-212 Belgrade avenue, West Roxbury, early today.

Trapped in their apartment on the third floor of the burning building, their escape cut off by the flames which had burned through the stairway leading to the street floor, the three were in a panic as they faced death.

SCREAMS ARE HEEDED.

Ladder 16 was one of the first pieces of apparatus on the scene. The firemen heard the screams of the imprisoned victims and a ladder was up to a third-floor window in a second.

Laddermen James Kierney, David Shea and John J. Burke ran up the ladder and carried the frightened women and man to the street.

The three rescued were Thomas Asteriadis and his wife, Maria, and a lodger, Miss Florence Freemantle, the latter 68 years of age.

FURNACE OVERHEATED.

The first floor of the building was occupied by the grocery store of Terrence McNulty and the tailor shop of A. Goodman. The second floor apartments were occupied by Gordon Shaw and Mary A. Howard, both of whom made their way to the street when the fire was first discovered.

An overheated furnace in the basement set fire to the building and the flames swept into the stores above and from there to the second floor.

The loss is estimated at $6,000.

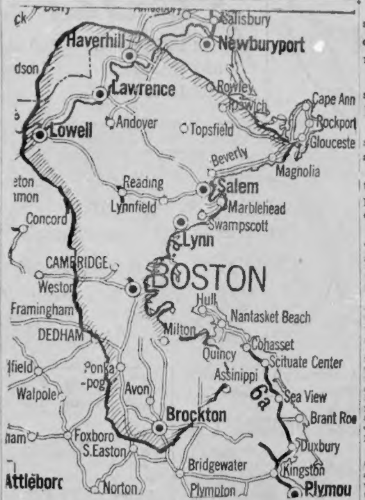
PEOPLE RUN INTO THE STREETS AS BUILDINGS SHAKE

An earthquake shock, the most severe in many years, and particularly distinct in the Merrimack Valley, rocked Eastern Massachusetts today and alarmed thousands of persons.



WHERE QUAKE WAS NOTED

Map shows district from the South Shore to southern New Hampshire in which windows were rattled and dishes thrown to the floor and in which many residents rushed out of doors. The shock was most pronounced where rock formations predominated.

Starting at 8:09, the tremor lasted some thirty seconds, rocking houses and buildings, rattling windows and dishes, and shaking ornaments from plate rails.

In many places women and children fled to the streets, fearful that the heating systems in their homes had exploded.

According to the authorities, the quake, which extended into southern New Hampshire, was preceded by a minor disturbance at Danville, N. H., at 5:40 a. m.

It was the worst earth shock since March 21, 1904, the day the Boston American made its initial bow to the public, when persons aroused from sleep by the tremor rushed to the safety of the streets.

Today's disturbance lasted some seconds longer, in the vicinity of Lawrence three distinct shocks being reported. As far as could be learned the disturbance extended from Brockton, Braintree and Quincy and other points on the South Shore to Gloucester on the north.

It radiated inland through Somerville, Medford Hillside, Melrose and Wakefield, up through the Mystic Valley to Lexington, Woburn, Maynard and Acton.

At Portsmouth, believed to be the farthest point east that the quake reached, the residents were much frightened by the tremor which shook buildings violently. Householders ran to the streets, and the police telephones were kept busy answering questions as to the meaning of the disturbance.

MANY SURMISES.

All sorts of surmises were made as to the cause of the disturbance and police stations were swamped with telephone calls. Explosions at the United States Cartridge Company's plant at Lowell, at the powder mills in Acton and at Fort Banks, Winthrop, were at first feared.

The time reported from various communities ranged from 8:08 to 8:20. At the Walden street fire station in Revere the gong clanged at 8:02, and firemen rushed to the board seeking the location of the box from which they thought an alarm was coming. After the first stroke, however, the bell was mute.

The Harvard seismograph recorded the tremor as beginning at 8:07 o'clock, and lasting some fifteen seconds. Because of some disturbance it was not possible to estimate the distance of the tremor, but officials said the direction was believed to be north.

At the Harvard Astronomical Observatory, which was deluged with telephone calls, it was said the shock apparently followed rock ridges and

CURLEY

PATIENTS MUST BE GUARDED

Automatic Alarms and Sprinklers Mandatory After April 1 Next

Elizabeth Jenkins, burned to death as she lay helpless in her cot in the Scobey Hospital, Back Bay, did not give up her life in vain.

Elizabeth Jenkins, alive, could have urged and agitated fire protection for the hundreds of helpless patients in private hospitals of Boston until she was a grey-haired woman and she would have accomplished nothing.

But Elizabeth Jenkins, with her life, has purchased protection for hundreds of other helpless ones, within seventy-two hours after she was forced, under terrible circumstances, to make the supreme sacrifice.

MAYOR TAKES HAND.

Responding to the wave of indignation that has swept the Hub as the result of the Scobey fire, Mayor Curley has taken the bit in his teeth and has announced that private hospitals that do not have fire sprinkler and automatic alarm systems installed will be refused city licenses April 1.

There is no law that specifically orders private hospitals to have sprinkler and alarms systems, but the building commissioner and health commissioner, who have the granting of the licenses, have authority to refuse licenses under certain conditions. The mayor has peremptorily included the sprinkler and alarm systems among these conditions.

At the same time the mayor announced his drastic action, it was made known that City Health Commissioner Francis X. Mahoney, Building Commissioner John H. Mahoney and Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn today are to start a tour of inspection of every private hospital or convalescing house in Boston.

In every case where the operators of these private institutions are found violating the health, fire or building laws, the licenses will be immediately revoked.

NEW LAW SOUGHT.

At the same time, the city corporation counsel has prepared an order which will go to the Legislature, providing that not only private hospitals, but all private schools, homes for the aged and tenement buildings over three stories in height shall be adequately equipped with sprinkler system and automatic alarms.

One of the most illuminating bits of testimony concerning conditions at the Scobey Hospital is given by Miss Elizabeth Malaney, a special nurse, who was on duty on the third floor at the time the fire started. Miss Malaney told the Grand Jury, Assistant District Attorney Maurice Caro announced, that she tried to close the iron fire door between the buildings, but found that its weight was so great that it could not be budged before the flames started to lick at her body.

PRIVATE HOSPITALS.

It is quite likely that the Grand Jury will make recommendations for the installations of ladders from the balcony fire escapes to the ground, exits from the floors to escapes in the shape of doors, rather than windows, and automatic fire alarms with a sprinkler system on each floor of such buildings.

The Grand Jury also has been given the reason for the existence of so many private hospitals in Boston. Owing to the conditions in general hospital service, medical service in the hospitals is limited mostly to staff physicians and surgeons. No other doctors may bring patients to these hospitals without special permission. This has caused a growth of the private hospitals until now there are nearly fifty in Boston.

KELLEY BLAMES FOOTE.

Representative Coleman E. Kelley has placed the responsibility of the Scobey Hospital fire catastrophe directly to Alfred F. Foote, commissioner of public safety, in a statement made yesterday. He charged that the disaster would have been averted had the commissioner's office made a thorough investigation of fire menaces in State and private hospitals as provided in Kelley's resolutions adopted by the General Court on February 23, 1923, a few days after the Ward Island Hospital fire in New York.

Kelley charges that only a perfunctory investigation was made and then only in a few instances even though the commissioner had given him to understand that all private hospitals would be included.

GENERAL COURT CONVENES AT STATE HOUSE

Among the important matters facing the members are demands for an investigation of the scandal surrounding commercialized Sunday baseball, and a thorough probe of the affairs of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company.

The two branches were rapped to order by their respective clerks, William W. Sanger of the Senate, and in the House by James W. Kimball, and then turned over to Senator Walter E. McLane of Fall River, and Representative Walter H. Faunce of Kingston, oldest in point of service in the respective branches. Faunce is ninety-two years of age and first served in the House in 1880.

ELECTIONS MERE ROUTINE.

As has been customary in recent years, the election of a president and a speaker was a cut and dried affair. Before the session had prorogued, Senator Wellington Wells of Boston was practically assured of the former office and Representative John C. Hull of Leominster had enough pledges to put him over for speaker.

The last official act of Governor Cox was the swearing in of the members of both branches and the members of the new executive committee. Among the latter is Washington Cook, Republican, of Sharon, a brother of Alonzo B. Cook, the State auditor.

Of the 240 members of the House, 103 are newly elected, 92 of these serving for the first time. Seventeen of the 40 Senators are new, 10 coming from the lower chamber. Both branches are overwhelmingly Republicans.

KIRKPATRICK "BABY."

To William E. Kirkpatrick of Holyoke goes the honor of the title "Baby" of the session. Kirkpatrick is 23 years old, a Democrat.

The women made no gains in the membership; neither did they lose. Mrs. Susana W. FitzGerald of Boston was defeated for re-election. Mrs. Harriet R. Hart of Lynn is the new woman member. The other woman member. The other woman member is M. Sylvia Donaldson, Brockton.

The lawyers, as usual, lead the professions in the House, there being 44 of them. The nearest occupation or profession to the lawyers are the merchants who muster but 14.

ENGLAND CONCEDES U. S. REPARATIONS CLAIMS

London, Jan. 7.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill has left for Paris with the belief that no difficulty will arise regarding America's claims to participate in the revenues from Germany under the Dawes plan.

Britain is prepared to concede the claims of the United States, it is learned, and agree that America is entitled to recover the costs of her army of occupation and war damages from the reparations paid by Germany.

POSTAL MEN THREATENING TO QUIT

A spirit of bitterness verging on revolt, with indications of many resignations among the younger employes, pervaded the Boston postoffice today as a result of the sustaining by the Senate of the President's veto of the Postal Pay bill.

The men feel that the entire executive force of a mighty nation was mobilized to defeate a measure favored by the press, pulpit and the country in general, according to a statement by John A. Kelly, president of the Boston Federation of Postoffice Clubs.

The statement says:

"I am sure that I am conservatively expressing the feelings of the postal employes when I say that we are demoralized and disheartened, bitter and hopeless. With seemingly the public, press and pulpit, House and Senate, overwhelmingly in our favor, nevertheless the all powerful executive force of a mighty nation has been utilized to prevent the wage revision of the postal employes, and for the second time in four years the long-expected relief has been snatched away from us.

RAISE MEANS MUCH.

"Collectively the raise meant about $88,000,000. Divided among 300,000 postal employes it represented an increase of $225, or a daily one of 60 cents. To some it meant an advance from actual poverty; to some freedom from ever-constant worry of debt; to some an opportunity for better living conditions. There was hardly one of the rank and file to whom the meagre 60 cents increase did not mean an opportunity to approach nearer to that much mentioned American standard of living, which, unfortunately for the postal employes, seems very delusive.

"The 60 cents a day raise meant the difference between a good job and a poor job; between a good job with its permanent, interested, contented employes, and a poor job with its transient, careless, discontented, roving and inefficient employes.

"While the employes suffer primarily, the postal service suffers secondarily.

MANY TO QUIT.

"Our plans for the future are problematical and depend upon the action of the executive board of the National Federation of Postal Clerks. There will be, of course, a number of resignations from the service. These will be from the younger employes, who have no family incumbrances and are in a position to enter other lines of business, who e their faithful service will be better rewarded.

"The treatment afforded the faithful employes is a sad commentary on the way the richest nation in the world treats its Federal employes. One hears so much regarding the treatment of employes by the 'soulless corporations.' That remark should be revamped and 'corporations' eliminated. Insert instead 'Federal government.' The honor—pardon, the odium—belongs to the United States as now governed."

BANDITS IN TWO SOMERVILLE HOLDUPS

Armed Trio Stage Daring Spa Robbery, Then Escape in Taxicab

Somerville and the Aberdeen section of Brighton furnished the settings for the latest activities of the gunmen and thugs who are terrorizing Boston.

In Somerville, two gunmen held up a pedestrian and robbed him of $22, three armed bandits held up a clerk in a spa and relieved him of $11, escaping in a taxicab. In Brighton two burglars were surprised in the home of Atty. Frank M. Zottoli, one of the pair being captured by the attorney's son, a Harvard law student, after a long chase.

Francis W. Murray of Oxford street, Somerville, was on his way home when two young men appeared out of Trull lane.

"Just a minute, Bud," one of the pair called and as Murray slowed up one of the bandits thrust the muzzle of a revolver into his abdomen. The other went through Murray's clothing and relieved him of $22.

Murray followed the pair as far as Somerville avenue where he lost track of them.

The police sent a wagon load of officers to search the neighborhood, but the men made a clean getaway.

George W. Farnum, a clerk in the spa of Miss Grace Ingalls at No. 339A Highland avenue, Somerville, was back of the counter, alone, when three youths leaped from a taxicab, drew revolvers and entered the place.

The trio demanded the money from the cash register, and Farnum passed over $11. The bandits fled from the spa, boarded the taxicab and disappeared. The police secured the registration number of the cab and broadcasted an alarm for the machine.

At the Zottoli home at No. 1783 Commonwealth avenue, members of the family heard a noise on the second floor when they returned home. The attorney and his son Reginald went to investigate. They were just in time to see the last of the pair of burglars leap from an upstairs window.

Slave Bride

ANNE MEDEIROS.

MAN CHARGED WITH SELLING HIS SISTER

Wanted $100 to Bring Bride From Azores, Mother Says

New Bedford, Jan. 7.—The story of a thirteen-year-old girl, sold into slavery by her older brother, for $100, is being investigated by the police.

Mrs. Antone Medeiros of No. 74 Nelson street, mother of pair involved, revealed the almost unbelievable story to the authorities.

The brother, according to the mother, sold his sister to a man who boarded at the Medeiros home, and who long had looked at the girl with covetous eyes.

The girl is alleged to have been purchased by Adolphe Gonsalves, thirty-four years old. He and the girl, along with the brother, have disappeared.

Mrs. Medeiros told the police that when her son, Anton, who is twenty-three years old, went on a visit to the Azores, she was was forced to take boarders into her home in order to get along. Six months ago Adolphe Gonsalves secured room and board at her place.

Subsequently, her son, who had married in the Azores, returned home, but was without funds to pay the passage of his bride. He brooded over this and constantly bemoaned the fact that with $100 he could pay his bride's passage to Boston.

Recently, according to the mother, her son came to her and told her that Gonsalves had offered him $100 for his sister's hand in marriage. The mother objected, and the son dropped the subject.

A day or two ago, the mother found a letter written by her son to his bride, in which he stated he had secured the needed money and was sending for her.

While the mother was out marketing, her son, daughter and the boarder disappeared and nothing has been seen of them since.

The mother told the authorities she is convinced the girl was sold to the boarder and that the three fled, fearing her wrath.

While the girl is only thirteen years old, she is of large build and is as well developed as the average girl of twenty.

COOLIDGE FIRM TO END CHILD SLAVERY

Resents Report He Has Withdrawn Support of Labor Amendment

Washington, Jan. 7.—President Coolidge earnestly hopes that child slavery will be abolished in this country. He favors ratification of the child-labor amendment by the State Legislatures.

He has stated that attitude very plainly to persons who have visited with him at the White House. He hopes that his attitude in favor of the amendment has been so clearly stated that it will not be misrepresented in the future by foes of the amendment.

In Massachusetts, during the recent test vote upon the amendment, and in the two score States where Legislatures will meet soon, the interests opposed to the amendment have insinuated that he has withdrawn his previous support of it. His attitude has been thoroughly misrepresented.

President Coolidge is known to have informed a White House caller that he stands four-square upon his first message to Congress, his speech of acceptance and upon the Republican national platform.

In his first message to Congress he urged the passage of the child-labor amendment. He asked members of Congress to vote for it. He regarded that first step to wipe out child slavery as the most distinguishing achievement of his first year as President.

The President's attitude for the abolition of child slavery was formed by him during his early service in the Massachusetts Legislature. He favored abolition of it at that time. In fact, during the last campaign substantial support was won for him among the working people because of his early attitude favorable to them.

WAITER SOUGHT AS BROTHER OF SUICIDE

Boston police are looking for a man whose name is believed to be Henry Feeney, a waiter in a Boston hotel, whose sister, Mrs. Mary Brown, was found dead from illuminating gas poisoning in a New York apartment.

The body of Mrs. Brown and a man known as John W. Musgrove were found in the apartment where the jets on a stove were open when neighbors, suspicious of their non-appearance for several days, notified the police who forced an entrance into the rooms.

Neighbors said Mrs. Brown told them her real name was Feeney but that several years ago she appeared on the stage with her sister under the name "The Brown Sisters" and since had retained the name.

She told them she had relatives who conducted a hotel in Massachusetts.

CRUISING AUTHORS PUT INTO PORT FOR REPAIRS

Newport, R. I., Jan. 7.—The ketch Mary, enroute to the West Indies, the Caribbean Sea, and Central America, with her crew of two, Henry C. Roland of Washington, and Richard Matthew Hallet of East Boothbay, Me., authors, put in here for repairs.

The ketch's rudder and steering gear, weakened when she was caught for four days in the ice in the Cape Cod Canal, developed further trouble after she sailed from New Bedford.

It is expected that the Mary will sail today for Norfolk, Va., to provision there for the next jump to the West Indies.

AUTOIST HELD IN DEATH OF WOMAN

James E. Kimball of No. 333 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, faces a charge of manslaughter in the Chelsea court as the result of his auto running down and killing Mrs. Mary Vanteill, aged 72, of No. 92 Mountain avenue, Revere.

Kimball was driving on Broadway near Cushman street, Revere, when he struck the woman. According to his story, Mrs. Vantelli stepped from behind a trolley car directly in front of his machine.

JEWISH SOCIETY TO HOLD 50TH ANNIVERSARY

One Charter Member of Tefereth Israel Will Be a Guest at Event

Julian Abrams of Roxbury who, fifty years ago, was one of the original signers of the Tefereth Israel, will be the oni yliving charter member present at the fiftieth enniversary of the organization tonight in Canvention Hall.

Founded by a small group of Jewish immigrant men, the society has now grown to a membership of more than a thousand. In charge of the celebration is Hyman Lewis of Roxbury, who will be assisted by Jacob Daniel, vice-chairman; Abraham A. Simmone, secretary-treasurer; Mark Abrams, Simon Goldberg, Julius Lewis, Samuel Herman, Louis A. Barron, Samuel H. Lewish and Saul Fish.

The organization cares for their sick and needy and insures religious burial for the dead.

A benefit performance for the orphans of Europe will be held tonight at the Grand Opera House under the auspices of the Cambridge Ladies' Auxiliary Jewish National Charitable Association. A popular Jewish show will be presented.

The new Temple Kehillath Israel on Harvard street, Brookline will be dedicated next Sunday. The exercises will be followed by a banquet. Among the speakers will be Judge David I. Lourie, and Rabbi Leo Jung of New York, Cantor I. Levittes of Buffalo will direct the musical program.

MAYOR HOT ON MULLIGAN'S HEELS

The author of this final act—the climax by the way—is James Michael Curley. The sub-title of this act will be "Lafayette Revealed or Mulligan with his Whiskers Missing."

Politics make strange bed-fellows—so also did the gilded key to Boston that Lafayette Mulligan presented to the Prince of Wales on behalf of James Michael Curley, Mayor of Boston.

The Mayor has no love for Great Britain—as everyone knows, but ever since that key hoax was put over, the Mayor and the sleuths of Downing street have been working hand-in-glove to uncover the identity of the psuedo-social secretary of the Mayor.

The British don't relish the idea of their future ruler being "kidded."

The Mayor doesn't like the idea of being blamed for inviting the future King to make himself at home in Boston and to toast his shins at the Mayor's own fireside out Jamaicaway.

Therefore, the City sleuths and the English intelligence office have been working to "show up" Lafayette.

The Mayor has arrived at the point where he has announced that Lafayette Mulligan is an editor on a Boston morning newspaper.

The real unmasking is due when the final link in the chain is forged by the small army of British and Boston sleuths.

OFFICERS INSTALLED BY HOTEL GREETERS

The newly elected officers of the Boston Hotel Greeters' Association were installed at the meeting of the association, held at the Parker House. About fifteen members of the association attended. Edwin H. Plummer of the Hotel Touraine, president of the association, was the installing officer.

The following officers were inducted into office: Edwin H. Plummer, president; E. N. Billings, Massachusetts Chambers, first vice president; Francis H. Lawrence, Hotel Argonne, second vice president; Daniel C. Rhodes, Hotel Ritz, secretary; Samuel Torrey, Hotel Westminster, treasurer; Burton E. Hall, Hotel Kenmore, sergeant-at-arms, and Frank H. Langil, Hotel Commodore; Fred K. Cloutman, Crawford House; Hiram A. Morse, Adams House; Clarence H. Small, Hotel Commonwealth; and N. C. Richardson, Hotel Touraine, board of governors.

NURSES FIGHT FLOOD AT CITY HOSPITAL

Nurses and attendants at the City Hospital thought for a time they would have to don bathing suits, or at least rubber hip boots, when the shaft of a hydraulic elevator was pulled from its fittings, releasing a miniature geysey.

Water filled the elevator well and overflowed into some of the floors. Dr. Dowling, head of the hospital, mustered the nurses and attendants and with brooms and brushes they fought the flood so successfully that the water was kept from the wards and private rooms.

Engagement of Eleanora Winslow Will Be Announced Soon

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE engagement of Miss Eleanora Winslow, daughter of the George Scott Winslows, to Leonard Jacob, which is just about to be announced in Boston, will bring a decided thrill to the intimate friends and highly-placed relatives of this prominent young girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Winslow, who make their home on Chestnut street, have been in New York with their daughter, and have been but a scant twenty-four hours back in town, arriving at about the same time the good news flashed over.

Miss Winslow, after putting in two or three seasons of belleship in her choice circle, this Winter resigned her vice-presidency of the Vincent Club and betook herself to New York, determined to forsake the social round for a business career. During the Christmas rush she had a taste of what a real business life meant when she was one of the selling staff in a publishing establishment.

Cupid has played havoc with these well-laid plans, however. The wedding will be a brilliant affair, as was the bridal of the younger sister, Katherine, who married Louis B. McCagg, Jr., in the Cathedral Church of St. Paul in the early Summer of 1922. Miss Anna Winslow, also of Vincent Club fame, is another sister.

Mrs. Winslow was Mary Warren Glidden, and Winslow, pater, carries the aura of Somerset Club membership.

Mr. Jacob is a New Yorker. He is already related by marriage to some of Boston's ultra elect. His sister, the erstwhile Mary Jacob, first married Dick Peabody, later becoming the bride of Harry Grew Crosby, son of the Stephen Van Rensselaer Crosbys of No. 95 Beacon street.

The marriage of Mrs. Peabody and Mr. Crosby, in 1922, came as a complete surprise and made a stir in the wealthy and notable families here with which Mr. Crosby is affiliated. Mostly the young people make their home abroad. Mrs. Crosby has, however, been a guest at the North Shore Summer home of the senior Crosbys, and enjoyed there a decided popularity.

Mrs. Boylston Beal, wife of Boylston Beal, who is attached to the American embassy in London, is an aunt of the younger Crosby, as is also Mrs. J. P. Morgan of New York, and there are many other connections of like importance.

MISS ELEANORA WINSLOW

Whose engagement to Mr. Leonard Jacob of New York is just announced by her parents, the George Scott Winslows of Chestnut street.

JUST when or where the smart and exclusive Bachelors' Dance will take place this season is a question, with the departure of young Amory Coolidge for the farthermost parts of the world on a tour of some months' duration.

Mr. Coolidge, son of Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Coolidge of Coolidge Point, Manchester, and Beacon street, is one of the guiding stars of these affairs. Some two dozen of the smart set bachelors have been associated with him, and their guests include, as a rule, young women of sparkling personality and assured belledom. New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore furnish a quota, and elated indeed is the Boston girl or young matron bidden to the dance.

Samuel Peabody, Dudley Pickman, Jr., C. C. Felton, John Gaston, Henry B. Cabot, Jr., Linzee and Francis Weld and others are the hosts.

Mr. Coolidge left more than a week ago, and will visit India, China and other far and romantic shores in his leisurely journey around the world. He is due in town again sometime in May.

MISS SUZANNE DABNEY is one of those giving dinners on Friday next before the Assembly Ball. The Assembly, as quite every one in town knows, is the quintessence of things social, and promises to shine as brilliantly this season as it has in others.

Mr. S. Hooper Hooper and Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer hold the reins of leadership and some of the younger matrons of the smart world will be in the receiving line. Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Jr. (Frances Saltonstall), and Mrs. Philip Stockton are two of the handsome and beautifully gowned coterie, and then of course there are Mrs. Brandegee of the managers, Mrs. James Lawrence and Mrs. William C. Endicott. Last Winter Mrs. Stockton and Mr. Hooper led the cotillion. This year, in all probability, this pleasant duty will devolve into the hands of one of the younger men, possibly George Peabody Gardner, Jr., or Harcourt Amory.

Society Notes

I HEAR that the Richard Hartes are closing their Chestnut Hill home and are departing soon for a journey of some three months or more. Mrs. Harte is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Webster of Dartmouth street and Chestnut Hill.

There was a right royal welcome for Miss Juliet Greene last evening when she made her first appearance at Jane Noble's ball. Miss Greene is a May School girl, daughter of Mrs. Bertram Greene, and is one of the prominent girls of the bud set. Her formal coming out has been delayed, because of illness, but her youthful circle has greeted her informally at teas and afternoon affairs.

Plans are going on apace for the hat shop opening arranged for mid-January by those new voyageurs on the seas of commerce, Mrs. Arthur Derby and Miss Hope Gaston. Both these young women, however, find ample opportunity to shine in the social whirl, as witness their appearance at the last senior supper dance.

FILES BILL FOR JURY DUTY FOR FAIR SEX

Senator Walter Shuebruk of Cohasset has filed a bill making women eligible for jury duty in Massachusetts. The petition was signed by Helen G. Rotch, president of the League of Women Voters, and Jennie Loitman Barron, chairman of the unification of laws committee.

The bill provides that women trained nurses, assistants in hospitals, attendant nurses and women attending sick members of their families shall be exempt from duty.

Mothers of one or more children under the age of twelve years, or women having legal custody of such children, may be excused at their own request.

TRAIN OR AUTO DECISION FOR CONNECTICUT

Hartford, Ct., Jan. 7 (I.N.S.)—Connecticut's State Legislature, entering its session for the first time in two years today, probably will be told to choose between railroads and motor cars for the State's freight and passenger transportation service.

A similar project as to choice between trolleys and motor cars was put up to the 1921 Legislature, and the trolleys won.

Threats of abandoned service on branch rail lines in Connecticut have been made here by C. L. Bardo, general manager of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

JITNEYS ABOLISHED.

A similar declaration by L. S. Storrs, president of the State-wide trolley system, preceded convening of the 1921 Legislature, and was followed by complete elimination of the so-called jitney busses from the State.

A final show-down as between railroads and automobiles has been expected in Connecticut for two years. Manufacturers are seeking a combination of both means of transportation.

The State Highway Department attempted to build a truck highway from the New York State line to New Haven, but was held up when the 1923 Legislature refused to grant funds for bridges over wide rivers on the route.

Manufacturers of the State have joined to oppose an increase in freight rates proposed by the New Haven road, while they are asking the State to improve highways so their trucks may move faster.

TO QUIT 12 LINES.

The railroad has notified the Public Utilities Commission it intends to stop all service on a dozen branch lines that lead to busy manufacturing villages, contending the motor truck has made the rail lines a burden.

There has been no stated connection between the action of the railroad and that of the manufacturers, but both are waiting for the session of the Legislature, at which the matter ill be threshed out.

Makers of motor vehicles as well as rail line executives outside New England will watch the legislative battle. Both believe the outcome in Connecticut will have an important bearing on the situation elsewhere.

BOY SHOOTS BROTHER WITH "EMPTY" PISTOL

Norwalk, Conn., Jan. 7.—That he "didn't know the gun was loaded" was the explanation given Coroner John J. Phelan at an inquest by John Case, sixteen, who shot and killed his brother, Rodney, twelve, at their home in Darien, Sunday night. The boys were playing a "Wild West" game, John said.

Both were packing to leave for school, Rodney to the Kings School, and John to Andover, the lad told the coroner. Rodney pointed a cap pistol. His brother drew a 38-22 long barrelled Colt and fired, and the bullet barely missing the mother, passed through Rodney's chest.

AGED MAN KILLS SELF IN FIT OF DESPONDENCY

Wakefield, Jan. 7.—Despondent because one arm was paralyzed and he had only one leg and "tired of being in everybody's way," Charles A. Knowlton, seventy-nine years old, made all plans for his funeral and drank poison at the home of George Blodgett at No. 20 Water street, here.

Knowlton had lived at the Blodgett home since he came here from Sunapee, N. H., three years ago. He was a boyhood friend of Blodgett in the New Hampshire town, where before he retired from business he was a prominent figure in fraternal and civic affairs. He was a member of Sunapee Lodge of Odd Fellows and the Knights of Pythias of Newport, N. H.

Knowlton had been worried and despondent for some time, according to Mr. Blodgett, and had threatened to commit suicide on several occasions.

His first wife and a daughter, who live at Coldwater, Mich., survive him.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Lung Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now With Creomulsion, an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, Creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to cresote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation while the cresote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

CREOMULSION

WARREN SEEN AS STONE'S SUCCESSOR

Rugg, Wilbur and Beck, However, Are Considered Still in Race

Washington, Jan. 7.—Charles Beecher Warren, former ambassador to Japan, was the choice of political observers here today as the most likely successor to Attorney General Stone, elevated to the Supreme Court by President Coolidge yesterday.

Warren, who headed the American commission to Mexico, is held in high esteem by President Coolidge, and it is understood in official circles that he was offered the post of Attorney General when he called at the White House two weeks ago. This belief is given strength by the fact that shortly after Warren's conference with the President, the information was given out that "Mr. Warren would have an important announcement to make in about two weeks."

The roster of likely appointees is an exceedingly full one, however. Among those mentioned in connection with the office are Arthur P. Rugg, chief justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court; James M. Beck, now solicitor general and who will be acting attorney general when Stone retires; Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Judge Frank S. Dietrich, of Idaho, and Alex J. Groesbeck, who was selected as the choice of the Michigan delegation here today.

A hint that there may be opposition to the appointment of Warren came today when the Michigan delegation in Congress announced that they had endorsed Groesbeck instead of Warren for the post because of the latter's connection with the so-called sugar trust, Warren being attorney for the sugar interests.

10 P.C. of New York Marries Illegally, Report Shows

New York, Jan. 7.—Between ten and twelve per cent. of the marriages performed in New York State in the last twenty years are illegal.

This amazing statement was made today by members of a board of inquiry appointed by the Brooklyn Federation of Churches to find out how many clergymen are performing marriages without authority under the law.

The law provides that priests, ministers and rabbis must register with the board of health before they can marry couples. Throug h ignorance of the law many of them have failed to do this.

TALKS HIMSELF INTO 25-YEAR SENTENCE

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan. 7.—Ray Snodderly, sixteen-year-old hobo, who talked himself into a twenty-five-year penitentiary sentence for a Council Bluffs robbery and shooting, will be taken to prison today, although officers are convinced he had no part in the crime.

Snodderly entered a "full and voluntary confession" of the robbery and shooting of two men, representing himself as "Scar Finger Ted," a member of a gang of robbers operating in and about Council Bluffs and Omaha, across the Missouri River from here. He started talking after he had applied for lodging at the city jail a cold night recently.

Percy Lainson, sheriff, said he had established that the boy was in Kansas City, Mo., when the robbery occurred. An effort will be made to obtain a pardon.

Many of us work on the spur of inspiration—but only some of the time. For the most part it's a steady, tenacious grind at a smooth-running stride that actually brings home the bacon.

ELEVEN YET TO COME.

The Boston American puzzle contest is now on its homeward gallop. Eleven more puzzles to come. And then the homestretch. With $1,000 in prizes at the end of the Cross-word marathon.

Persistency will carry you over that home stretch. Persistency will bring you in line for a share of that $1,000 purse. Persistency will make you proud of your achievement.

Persistency means steady plugging. In this case it is a combination of corking fun, mental development and financial advancement. Have your share of good fun, rub in a few creases in the cerebral mechanism and rake in a stack of gold coin.

Don't let some unusually tough checkerboard throw you off your course, now that you've got as far as this. Put that particular puzzle aside for the time being and come back to it in a day or two. By that time the word you've been groping for will have come to you.

WATCH YOUR OWN CHANCE.

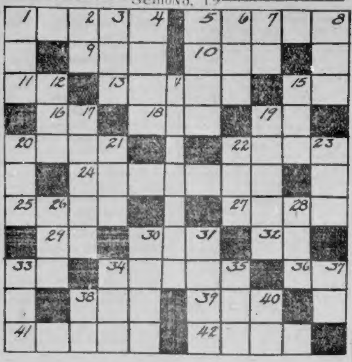
Don't let the other fellow or girl get your share of the $1,000. It's your pile as well as anybody else's. Keep tackling each puzzle as it comes along each day. Don't fall behind. Keep them stacked away in a neat pile for the grand sendoff after the thirtieth set appears.

If by this time you haven't that letter of 200 words telling why you like cross-word puzzles written, go to it. Put it among your puzzles for the grand sendoff.

Consistency!
Persistency!
Competency!

A REAL BRAIN TEASER

Senior No. 19



Here is the nineteenth pair of puzzles in the Boston American's thirty-day contest for cross-word fans of New England. Read the rules and conditions and enter today. One of each, Senior and Junior, will be printed each day in the Boston American until sixty in all have been set before the fans.

X-WORD SHOES LATEST IN FOOTWEAR

Cross-word puzzle shoes have hit Boston.

A beautiful brocade fabric in which the dark squares predominate with just enough light squares woven in to give attractiveness to the design has been placed on the market by the Peters Manufacturing Company. Patents on the new fabric already have been filed.

The cross-word puzzle shoe fabric is the last word in beauty. Black and gold, black and silver and black and brown are among the most attractive combinations. A big demand for evening slippers made from the brocade already has been encountered.

The cross-word fad in foot gear follows hard on the King Tut designs developed after the finding of Tutankhamen's tomb in Egypt last year and the spread of the Mah Jong style which brought Chinese designs.

CONVICTED SLAYER'S WIFE THREATENED

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Mrs. Charles Krauser, Jr., sister-in-law of Walter Krauser, who is under sentence of death convicted of murder, has communicated to the police threats against her and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lillian Ehrhardt, if they testified against Bernard Grant at a hearing for a pardon on January 14. Grant and Krauser were convicted separately and both sentenced to die. Grant's friends and persons interested in many cities have sent petitions bearing 185,000 signatures, asking Governor Small to extend clemency to Grant.

RITES HELD FOR AUTHOR OF SAFETY FIRST SLOGAN

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Funeral services were held for Ralph C. Richards, father of the Safety First slogan. Richards died Friday at the home of his son-in-law in Geneva, Ill.

The world-famous catchword appeared in 1910 in a book, the first of several volumes he wrote on safe railroading. For 54 years Richards was connected with the Northwestern Railroad here, where he started as an office boy.

YOUTHS MUST DIE IN THE CHAIR TOMORROW

Riverhead, N. Y., Jan. 7 (I.N.S.).—All hope of saving John Emieletoil, twenty-one, and John Rys, alias Joseph Adams, nineteen, both of Reading, Pa., from the electric chair in Sing Sing prison Thursday night vanished when word was received here that Governor Smith had refused to commute to life imprisonment their sentence to death. They murdered Lee Jong, a laundryman, and spent his money at Coney Island.

FINDS GOLD CACHE WORTH A FORTUNE

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 7. — Edward Poor, rancher, of Grass Valley, today found himself considerably richer than his name indicates when he unearthed a large cache of French gold coins, bearing the date 1851 and believed to have been buried during California's early days in the hills now owned by Poor.

Local banks declare that each of the 20-franc pieces is worth $4.90.

DIGGERS FIND FOUR $50 BILLS OF 1864 ISSUE

Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 7.—Workmen digging for the foundations of a building for the American Molasses Company here have found four $50 United States greenbacks dated December 15, 1864. The greenbacks are in fairly good state of preservation. They were in a small hard-rubber matchcase.

JURIST CITES DEATH LIKE McCLINTOCK'S

By A. J. LORENZ.

Chicago, Jan. 7 (Universal).—Demanding that the crypt of the past be unsealed—not only that of the McClintock family but of his own brother—Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court has given the investigation into the death of the youthful millionaire a startling turn.

Judge Olson, voluntarily taking the witness stand in the coroner's inquest, made what was regarded as a reply to the challenge of William D. Shepherd, McClintock's guardian, that he give his motives for causing the disinterment and investigation into the death of William Nelson McClintock.

The jurist, after giving detailed history of the life of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, revealed what he termed were mysterious circumstances surrounding her death.

BODY PINK, EYES BRIGHT.

Judge Olson urged that the body of his own brother, Dr. Oscar Olson, physician to the McClintock and Shepherd families, be exhumed. Dr. Olson died two years ago of what was diagnosed at that time as ptomaine poisoning, under circumstances, he charged, similar to the death of young McClintock six weeks ago.

"When I visited my brother's home on Christmas Eve before his death," Judge Olson declared, "he sat up with the family at the dinner table. His physician told me he was in no danger.

"On Monday, the day before he died, I visited him again. His skin was pink and radiant. His eyes glistened. I lifted the sheet and found his entire body was pink. When I arrived at the house the next day he was dead.

VISITED BY SHEPHERD.

"Shepherd was alone with him for several minutes, I learned, and this was the only visit Shepherd had made him in nine years."

Judge Olson demanded that the coroner's inquest be continued indefinitely—for three months at least.

"The State's Attorney's inquiry into the McClintock affair has been superficial," Judge Olson said.

"The mere fact that somebody would profit handsomely by this boy's death was excuse enough for an investigation. I am a criminal lawyer and I know."

Judge Olson's story covered the entire life history of Mrs. McClintock, mother of the orphan "Billy" and youthful heir to the McClintock millions.

WELLS AND WRANGEL ESQUIMAUX SAVED

London, Jan. 7. — Charles Wells, the United States citizen and the thirteen Esquimaux thought to have been kidnaped with him from Wrangel Island by Soviet agents, are alive and will be delivered safely in America.

The Russian trading ship Krasny Oktrabr (Red October) arrived off Wrangel Island in the middle of August. A white man was seen launching a row boat and starting out to meet the ship. He explained that he was Charles Wells.

The commander of the Russian ship agreed to take the refugees aboard and carry them to the nearest United States port, but running short of coal had to give up the attempt and make for Vladivostock instead.

JUDGE OLSON "RAVES," SHEPHERD DECLARES

Albuquerque, N. M., Jan. 7.—William D. Shepherd branded as "the ravings of a disordered mind" insinuations made by Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Chicago Municipal Court, that Shepherd might have been involved in the death of Olson's brother, Dr. Oscar Olson, who died three years ago.

NEW YORK LAW TO BLOCK FRAUDULENT STOCK GAME

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Insertion of teeth into the Martin anti-bucketeering law is promised in legislation proposed by Attorney-General Ottinger.

Fradulent operations in commodities such as cotton, grain, sugar and the like fall within the scope of the proposal.

The same bill provides that a new stock promotion must be published in a newspaper with the names and addresses of all the dealers interested in the issue of stock prior to the offer of sale.

Another clause calls for the appointment of receivers as soon as temporary injunctions are obtained and the seizure of all property and books of accounts of the defendant.

AROOSTOOK COUNTY JAIL IS OVERCROWDED

Augusta, Me., Jan. 7.—Governor Baxter received a complaint from Aroostook County that the Houlton Jail was overcrowded, that three, four and five prisoners were being confined in a single cell. The communication suggested that some of these prisoners ought to be released.

Under instructions from the Governor, Secretary of State Ball wrote the complainant telling him that the only way any prisoners could be released would be through a pardon or parole and that this could not be done except through the regulation three weeks' notice of hearing being given by the Governor and Council.

SHIPWRECKED SEAMEN REACH HUB ON WAY HOME

En route to their homes in Newfoundland, six shipwrecked seamen who had comprised the crew of the British schooner Esther Hankinson, lost off the Canary Islands in November, arrived here from Montevideo, Uruguay, passengers on the British steamer Thespis. The schooner's boatswain, Peter Slade of Kingswell, a lad of nineteen, lost his life in a heroic effort to repair the rudder, which had been put out of commission by heavy seas. On the same day the others were picked off the wreck by the Greek steamer Chartlambas, after having been adrift for fifteen days.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR $20,000 PRIZE WINNER

Cleveland, Jan. 7.—George A. Elwell, former Youngstown, O., commercial artist and engraver, who won $20,000 for supplying the winning name for Liberty, a weekly magazine, is being sought on the charge that he had neglected four minor children.

According to his wife, Dora Helen Elwell, the prize money is all gone except for $4,000, of which $1,530 must be paid as income tax. He drew $2,400 of that sum from the bank before leaving their home here last Saturday, she added.

RHODE ISLAND "EXILES" RETURN TO PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., Jan. 7.—Governor Aram J. Pothier and other Republican officials elected last Fall have taken office. The inaugural ceremony at the State House was marked by the return of nineteen of the twenty-two Republican Senators who have spent the past six months in self-imposed exile at Rutland, Mass. Senator Jesse Hopkins died during the period of exile; Senator Evers of Cranston was confined to his homeby illness and Senator Cole remained in Massachusetts. The last named was not re-elected.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy — If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

BAY STATE IS ROCKED BY EARTH TREMORS

Lowell reported the tremor as starting at 8.16 and lasting several seconds, being especially pronounced in the hill districts.

Christian Hill, in Centralville, Belvedere, Pawtucket and the Highlands, all in the suburbs, reported houses shaken, and dishes rattled on shelves.

The disturbance was also felt in Chelmsford, Billerica and Dracut.

HEAVY RUMBLING.

At the United States Cartridge Company factory on Lawrence street, Lowell, at first believed to have been the cause of the shock, no sign of the disturbance was felt. The majority of those who heard it said it sounded like the passing of a particularly heavy auto truck.

A distinct rumbling was heard in Lawrence and vicinity. In the Oakside section of Methuen it was so pronounced it shook dishes from plate rails on the walls. Three shocks, a second or two apart, were felt, starting shortly after 8 o'clock.

Women rushed to the streets with their children, fearing the heating systems in their homes had exploded, and hundreds of telephone calls were made to the police.

The sound was variously described as resembling an overheated boiler about to blow up, or the passing of heavy trucks.

In Haverhill, Lynn, Newburyport and other cities and towns adjacent the quake was felt, particularly in Gloucester, where men ran outdoors, convinced the courthouse had blown up.

The tremors passed up the Merrimack valley to southern New Hampshire, where they were recorded by government experts at Danville.

As far as could be learned, no serious damage was done other than the breaking of dishes and the strain on the nerves of women.

A distinct shock was felt throughout the Old Colony district in and around Brockton, dishes being reported broken, window panes smashed and houses generally shaken. At Quincy the tremor was also pronounced, houses trembling and windows and blinds rattling. Many residents believed a big blast had been set off in the quarries. The noise was said to resemble the roar of a fleet of motor trucks and lasted several seconds.

IN BOSTON, TOO.

At Winthrop, the alarmed residents first rushed to the basements of their homes to examine the heaters, and then to the streets fearful of an explosion in the powder magazine at Fort Banks.

The shock was felt in Boston proper, the police headquarters building rocking, and out through Allston, Brighton, Watertown and other suburbs it was noticeable. This was particularly true in Somerville, where women fled from their homes, and in Melrose and Wakefield, Lexington, Concord, Maynard, Acton, Woburn and towns in the Mystic Valley.

Salem and Marblehead were severely affected, the latter place reporting the shock lasted a full minute. Houses were shaken violently, dishes thrown to the floor, and slate loosened from roofs and clattered to the ground.

The last earthquake experienced in New England was as recent as last September, but it was confined to Maine and was of slight intensity. In November of 1923, a tremor was reported as having been heard in South Groveland, near Haverhill.

The worst previous shock occurred March 21, 1904, when a tremor lasting from three to twenty seconds occurred, being felt throughout Greater Boston and into Maine.

PREVIOUS QUAKE.

Professor E. C. Pickering, Harvard's famous astronomer, was awakened by the shock and looking at his watch, found the time was 1.05 a. m., a variation of less than a minute from the seismograph record. At Harvard the disturbance was said to have lasted three seconds, but others reported it to have been of much longer duration.

It was felt most distinctly by persons sleeping on upper floors, who said the houses rocked, windows rattled and dishes were shaken to the floor and smashed. Thousands of persons dressed hastily and ran to the streets. Three shocks were felt in Revere, but other places reported only one.

High seas leaped up in Boston Harbor, and vessels lying at anchor were nearly torn from their moorings.

Later reports said the shock was felt throughout New England, and was the worst in twenty years. In Maine residents were reported to have been panic stricken.

Today's disturbance was not felt in Manchester or north of that city, according to reports. In Swampscott stove covers were dislodged, and in Nahant pictures knocked from walls.

NOTICEABLE ON HILLS.

Fitchburg, Leominster and other places in that vicinity felt earth shocks soon after 8 o'clock. The tremor was particularly distinct in houses on hills.

Chester, Derry and other towns in Southern New Hampshire in the Merrimack Valley region were affected by the earthquake, according to reports. Residents of these towns reported shocks which shook houses and knocked kitchenware to the floor.

At Nashua it was said that a slight disturbance was felt.

Strange as it may seem to moderns, earthquakes were far from uncommon in the early days in this section. History records earthquakes in Boston in 1638, 1658, 1663, 1727 and 1755. The Memorial History of Boston says:

"The last, that of 1755, was the occasion of a lecture given by Professor Winthrop in the college chapel at Harvard. The Rev. Thomas Prince, of the Old South Church, took the same occasion to reprint a sermon which first appeared in connection with the earthquake of 1727. He indulged in some reflections on Mr. Winthrop for diverting the minds of the people, by his physical explanation, from the moral consideration suggested by the extraordinary season. Professor Williams made a careful study of the twenty-four earthquakes felt in this vicinity during the last century."

Another famous earthquake which was felt in the whole Northeastern portion of America, from New Brunswick to Iowa and from the St. Lawrence to Richmond and Cincinnati, occurred on October 20, 1870.

There were panics in Boston schools, pictures were shaken down from the walls, and people flocked into the streets by thousands. Bates Hall in the old library building vibrated, and "the massive State street block was perceptibly shaken," according to contemporary accounts.

The walls of the Studio Building appeared to move some three inches out of position and the State House was slightly jarred. China was broken, bells rung, chairs tipped and dippers were rattled in the the cells of the Suffolk County Jail.

At the Harvard Observatory the duration of this tremor was from eight to fifteen seconds, according to the estimates of different observers. The most severe effects in the United States were experienced in Scranton, Cooperstown, Roundout, Troy, and Hudson, N. Y., Montpelier, New Haven, Brunswick, Me., and at Boston.

Seismographs Were Caught Napping by Quake.

The seismograph at Holy Cross College, Worcester, was out of order today when the quake that startled Massachusetts occurred. The professer in charge of the seismograph at Harvard University was away on sick leave. The result was that practically no information could be given out today by either of these seats of learning relative to the earth tremors.

YOUTHS FIGHT DUEL OVER SALEM GIRL, 14

Salem, Jan. 7.—The smiles of a girl of 14 led two 16-year-old Romeos to battle on the street.

With the tide of battle going against him, one of the youthful swains ran to his home and procured a revolver with which he shot his rival through the left arm.

MAINE CENTRAL WILL REVISE RATE SCHEDULE

Portland, Me., Jan. 7.—Definite assurance that the Maine Central Railroad will reconsider its proposed appendix to the new schedule of Eastern class ratings was given to the Maine Traffic Association.

Maine industrial leaders had claimed that the schedule would impose such high freight rates upon shipments East of Brunswick that Eastern Maine factories would be unable to compete with industries in other parts of the United States, and would be forced out of busi-

Remarkable Incidents as Earth Shook

Many freak happenings occurred as the quake today hit the various cities and towns.

At Revere the members of the Walden street fire station were suddenly startled by the ringing of the fire gong. There was no fire, and until it dawned upon them that there was a quake they were mystified.

In Lowell and vicinity householders were suddenly startled by the rattle of dishes on their pantry shelves. Many housewives dashed to the pantries to see what was going on. At Lawrence and Methuen women rushed to the streets from their homes, fearing the heater system had exploded in the cellars.

At Gloucester scores of men dashed in the direction of the courthouse, thinking it had been blown up.

In Brockton dishes were smashed in some homes as they fell from shelves or plate rails. At Winthrop residents rushed first to their heaters and then to the streets, fearing an explosion at Fort Banks.

PICTURES DISLODGED.

At Marblehead the slates were loosened from many roofs and clattered to the ground.

Swampscott stove lids were dislodged and in Nahant pictures were shaken from walls.

At the United States Cartridge Company plant in Lowell, where it was first thought an explosion occurred, the shock was not even felt.

SEE DEADLOCK AT PARLEY ON DEBTS

Paris, Jan. 7 (I.N.S.).—The allied financial conference today ostensibly is being held to work out a new division of German reparations. Actually, according to diplomatic observers, it will accomplish nothing of the kind.

The best that can be hoped of the conference, they say, is that it will furnish ground for a much broader conference at which the whole problem of war debts and reparations can be taken up.

French officials are willing that an interallied debt conference be held in Brussels during March, but "such a conference with American representatives absent would be useless," officials declared.

Before any definite steps could be taken for holding a conference in Brussels the subject would have to be taken up with Washington and this has not been done, it was said in official circles.

Any suggestion at this time on the part of Great Britain or any other nation for such a conference therefore would be premature, it said.

The United States is represented at today's conference by Ambassador Herrick and Ambassador Kellogg. The latter came from London. Colonel John A. Logan, observer on the reparations commission, also is present.

Strenuous opposition to the American claim for a share in German reparations is expected to come from London. It has been the British contention that America should not participate in the German reparations because America did not sign the treaty of eVrsailles.

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT BILL PASSES SENATE

Washington, Jan. 7.—The Senate passed and sent to conference the Interior Department appropriation bill, first of the regular supply bills of the session. It carried approximately $288,800,000.

Saving Lives First Job of Firemen, Says Commissioner Glynn

"The saving of one human life is worth more than countless apartment blocks," Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn told the 24th annual convention of the Society of Master House Painters and Decorators of Massachusetts in Horticultural Hall.

The commissioner made direct reference to the work of the firemen in rescuing the patients of the Scoby Hospital in Sunday's fire. He said that the department had been severely criticized for not directing their streams upon the blaze sooner, but defended the apparent delay as necessary for the rescue of the patients.

5 AUTO MAKERS CUT PRICES OF MACHINES

New York, Jan. 7. — Automobile prices are on the down grade again. Five of the larger manufacturers cut prices in the last week and one or two others are said to be on the brink of an announcement.

Cadillac introduces a luxurious coach at $3,185. Packard made cuts in its single six closed car line, ranging from $540 to $846. Rickenbacker followed with cuts of $200 on each of the new series six. Peerless was next and Overland followed with what is said to be the largest cut ever made on a low price automobile.

Maxwell, today, joins the move with reductions ranging from $20 to $100.

FATHER DENIES HE HIT 2-MONTHS-OLD BABY

BANDIT SHOOTS POLICE CHIEF OF LEXINGTON

Officer Drives Off Bandits After Being Wounded and Beaten

on night duty, left the police station to go to his home on Muzzey street. He changed from his uniform to civilian clothes before leaving the station.

A short distance down Massachusetts avenue from police headquarters, on the opposite side of the street, is the Lexington Co-Operative Bank, in which a dim light burns all night.

The reflection of this light through the glass door revealed three men crouched in the doorway working at the bank door.

FLEE IN AUTO.

Drawing his revolver, the chief started across the street to investigate. The robbers saw the chief approach in the semi-darkness and as the officer reached the middle of the street the gang opened fire. The chief felt the sting of the bullet passing through his thigh, but he immediately returned the fire, emptying his revolver.

Two of the men ran up Massachusetts avenue toward a big touring car parked some distance away. The third ran up an alleyway running along the side of the bank.

Believing the man in the alleyway could not escape, the chief plunged into the black mouth of the driveway although he could make but slow progress with his injured leg.

He had taken only a few steps in the darkness when he was felled by a blow on the head. This was followed by a second blow, the robber using a blackjack. He apparently had laid in wait just inside the mouth of the alleyway.

The third member of the gang, with the chief disposed of, quickly rejoined his companions and the trio sped away in the direction of Concord.

The gun battle was plainly heard in the Lexington police station where Patrolman Thomas C. Buckley was on duty. The patrolman ran down the street just in time to see the car with the robbers pulling away.

Nearby towns were notified but no trace of the trio has been uncovered.

FAT MEN'S PRESIDENT IS FATTEST NO LONGER

Vice-President Burpee B. Bent of the United States Fat Men's Club was dethroned as the club heavyweight among the active members, after holding first rank at 310 pounds for about seven years. At the dinner, accompanying application for membership, was George B. Chapman of West Somerville, who weighed in at 316 pounds before the banquet at the American House.

Quake Probably Due to Breaking Up of Rock

An eathquake donates a shaking up of the earth's crust, due to the passage of elastic waves, depending on some internal cause. There are two classes: longitudinal and transverse. To have an earthquake a cubical element of the earth's crust has to have its volume compressed and its form distorted; the passage of each wave and the rapid recurrence of this movement constitutes the trembling called an earthquake.

One cause is a sudden settling, faulting or bending of the earth's crust owing to strains which are set up within it. The slow, secular construction of the earth's interior must set up such strains in the material resting on it. Though the rocks may withstand this strain for a considerable period, ultimately there is a giving way, causing a rock fracture many miles in length, the rock on one side sinking down and causing a fault. Or there may be a general jarring of considerable extent.

This form of earthquake is the usual type that occurs along the seacoasts, and is probably the kind that visited Massachusetts today.

SUES FOR DEATH OF FIVE CHILDREN IN BLAZE

Salem, Jan. 7.—Alleging that his five children were burned to death in their home, No. 251 Elm street, Lawrence, due to the carelessness of the city of Lawrence and Massachusetts Northeastern Railway Company in failing to keep the streets in a passable condition for the fire department, Angelo Di Glorio of Lawrence has brought suit against the city of Lawrence and the railroad.

Acting as administrator for the five deceased children, Maria, Rosina, Joseph, Lucian and Angelina Di Gloria, Angelo has filed five suits, each for $20,000. The suits were brought through the office of James J. Hatten, No. 40 Court street, Boston. The declaration alleges that Elm street, Lawrence, is a public thoroughfare which the city in question is legally bound to keep passable and free from any substance that might impede traffic.

MEANS ARRESTED, WILL BE TAKEN TO NEW YORK

Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 7.—Gaston B. Means, former Department of Justice agent, was brought here to take a train for New York, having been arrested at his home at Concord, N. C., on a bench warrant ordered by Federal Judge Lindley in New York, when Means failed to appear for trial.

Means, said to have been suffering recently from gallstones, declared here he was feeling better. A number of Federal agents accompanied him here and Deputy Marshal M. C. Coin of Charlotte will take him to New York.

20 TRAINMEN ROUTED BY SOUTH STATION BLAZE

Twenty trainmen were driven out of a dormitory on the second floor and damage estimated at $1,500 was done early today by a fire which started from an unknown cause in a locker room on the train level of the South Station, on the Dorchester avenue side. Dense smoke filled the concourse and rose into the dormitory.

Ineligible Veterans Given Pensions by City, Says State Commissioner

A Grand Jury investigation of reports that the Lynn city council committee on State Aid and Soldiers' Relief has been too generous in its awards to ex-service men is being considered today, according to Richard R. Flynn, commissioner of State aid and pensions.

The Lynn committee has been too generous, especially in cases where veterans convicted of crimes and therefore ineligible to receive aid, the commissioner charges. Some veterans, known to have court records, were paid as much as $40 a month by the city, according to the commissioner.

Despite his warnings, Commissioner Flynn says that men whom he had notified the city were ineligible, were paid their pensions.

The committee spent $34,361 in financial relief to veterans during the past year and the commissioner has threatened to refuse further State aid to Lynn if the violations are continued. He urges the passage of a law giving the State sole control of the distribution and allotment of pensions funds.

WALTHAM MAN JAILED IN CONTEMPT CASE

Sylvester Costellana of Waltham was committed to the East Cambridge jail by Judge Leggat of the Middlesex Probate Court, until such time as Costellana makes up his mind to pay his wife, Caroline, $64, which, she claims, he is in arrears in his temporary separate support payments.

Sylvester was given the opportunity to pay his wife the money when she haled him before the Probate Court on contempt proceedings. Sylvester admitted that he had the money, but refused to pay. Judge Leggat promptly ordered Sylvester committed.

We put locks on our doors and windows, not to invite invaders into r homes, but to protect ourselves against them. We have police to ard our homes and our lives. We have a fire department to put out blaze when it threatens our homes and cities. Yet when it comes to the common sense of having adequate protection for OUR COUNTRY we only do fool talking about it and arrive nowhere. We could put England and Japan inside our borders and hardly know they were there. We have more miles of unprotected sea coast than the two combined. Yet when it comes to having a navy and AIRPLANES second to no other country, all we do is TALK about them like a lot of gabby old men around the stove in a country store. England and Japan are "everlastingly" building scout cruisers and AIRPLANES while we sink ours and dawdle about our airfleet. Our foolish indifference is amazing. How some foreigners must chuckle at us.

STAR OF FILMS GETS THIRD DIVORCE

Her third matrimonial venture came to an end in a Los Angeles court when Judge Archbald granted her an interlocutory degree from Dr. Charles Rutherford, former Seattle physician. Miss Frederick testified that Dr. Rutherford deserted her less than a year after their marriage which occurred at Santa Ana, Calif., in 1922.

An interesting point developed in the star's testimony was that her marriage with Dr. Rutherford was the culmination of a romance long held in abeyance. She and Dr. Rutherford were childhood sweethearts and she said she had known him from her school days. But when she went on the stage at the age of seventeen, he disapproved, his youthful ardor cooled and they drifted apart.

The cause of dissension which prompted Dr. Rutherford to leave his famous wife was not brought out in court. He made no appearance and did not contest the suit.

Miss Frederick recently has staged a "come-back." Absent from the screen for some time after an eventful career as a star, she created a sensation in Ernst Lubitsch's "Three Women" in which she played the role of a woman of thirty-eight or forty, still attractive, and susceptible to the wiles of he-vamps. In the opinion of all the critics she "stole" the picture and her performance in Clarence Brown's "Smouldering Fires," which had its premiere here last week, definitely established her as a "character actress" of remarkable talent and screen presence. At present Miss Frederick is playing the title role in "The Lady," at a local theatre and is continuing with her screen work at the same time.

PEGGY TO FIGHT DIVORCE SUIT CHARGES

New York, January 7.—The dance team of Cortez and Peggy soon may be dissolved because of a secret romance in the life of Cortez.

The latter, whose real name is Esteban Cortezas, has been sued for divorce by Mrs. Elsie Cortezas, and Peggy has been named as co-respondent.

Peggy swears she is innocent and has retained an attorney to represent her at the trial.

Secrecy has hung over Cortez's wedding. Even his best friends did not know that he married a year ago. His wife was the former Elise Jacoby, daughter of I. M. Jacoby, millionaire tobacco merchant.

Peggy told what she knows of the marriage today.

"Steve Cortez met this Elsie Jacoby child when we were dancing in the Hotel Ambassador in Atlantic City a year ago last June," she said. "I knew that she was infatuated with him. I could see it. But it meant nothing to me at the time.

"Cortez has been my dancing partner for eight years. The road to success has been a hard and weary one. I knew that one breath of scandal could quickly undo all that has been gained. And when Steve came to me a year ago and told me that Elise was in trouble I was flabbergasted.

"And then I did the only thing a real woman can do for another woman. I told him to marry the girl. And, although she doesn't know it to this day, it was I who went to Cartier and purchased the wedding ring that she wears today.

One child has been born to the Cortez's union. Her name is Jane Stephanie.

MACARONI IN BABY'S THROAT, BUT SHE'S SAFE

An accident has disclosed the fact that uncooked macaroni is a safe plaything for a baby that is inclined to swallow its toys.

Hazel Cassavaugh, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cassavaugh of No. 178 Second street, Everett, choked on a piece of uncooked macaroni which lodged in the infant's throat.

The baby, undisturbed, breathed through the hollow interior of the macaroni while her aunt, Mrs. Benjamin Pulsifer and Charles Joyce, an Everett fireman, were busy dislodging the macaroni with their fingers.

The fireman went to the assistance of the child's aunt when he was attracted to the house by the woman's screams.

The youngster was laughing and cooing a few moments after the macaroni was dislodged from its throat.

NEARLY PERFECT X-RAY TEST OF GALL BLADDER

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 7.—Discovery by Dr. Evarts A. Groham of a process for making possible X-ray examination of the gall bladder with a 94.8 per cent. degree of accuracy, against a previous 37.4 per cent., was announced today with the publication of a description of Dr. Groham's experiments.

An opaque substance is injected into the veins and passes from the liver to the gall bladder through the bile secretion.

Dr. Groham reported the process had been used in 135 cases.

2 MEN AND 8 AUTOS GO THROUGH FLOOR

Barre, Vt., Jan. 7. — Benjamin Prestini and Harold Bond were hurled through the floor of the Barre Garage when the flooring collapsed, dropping the men and eight automobiles to the ground.

The accident happened when Prestini drove a heavy sedan upon the second floor from the elevator. There was a sudden splintering crash and autos and men crashed down on other cars below.

Thirteen automobiles were wrecked and the damage is estimated at more than $12,000.

Stork Preparing to Pay Visit to Chaplins

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 7.—The stork is fluttering about the home of Charles Chaplin, the Los Angeles Times says today, quoting as its authority Mrs. Chaplin, who until her marriage to the film comedian in Mexico last November, was Miss Lita Grey, his sixteen-year-old leading woman.

"I want a girl," said the former actress; "and so does Charlie; though, of course, we'd be satisfied either way."

WIFE ON STAND IN $15,000 BALM SUIT

New Bedford, Jan. 7.—Mrs. Laura De Gagner was scheduled to take the witness stand again today and continue her testimony in defence against the $15,000 alienation suit brought by her husband against Albert Clerc, wealthy business man of this city.

Mrs. De Gagner was the first witness for the defense. Her counsel told the court that her husband had instructed her to show Clerc "just how nice she could be," because Clerc was wealthy.

SON TELLS OF TRIP.

The wife had been on the stand only a few minutes when court was adjourned to today.

Edward De Gagner, the fifteen-year-old son of the couple was the last witness called by his father. He testified about a trip he took with his father to Portsmouth, R. I., when it was alleged they trailed the mother and Clerc.

De Gagner previously testified that he saw Clerc and his wife enter a house at Portsmouth and peeking through a window, he saw them conducting a "petting party."

FORCED TO SLOW DOWN.

Edward said he went to Portsmouth with his father but did not look in the window. His mother started back to New Bedford in the auto with him and his father, the boy testified.

"As we entered Fall River," the boy said, "traffic was heavy. Father had to slow down and when he did, mother jumped out and ran away."

TROOPS CHASE BANDITS WHO BLEW UP TRAIN

Mexico City, Jan. 7.—Troops are pursuing bandits under Juan Galindo, who dynamited and robbed a passenger train between Durango City and Salto.

Six soldiers guarding the train were killed, the passengers were robbed and a rich Mexican landowner was held for ransom by the bandits, who are said to number 34.

C. B. AITCHISON ELECTED TO INTERSTATE COMMERCE

Washington, Jan. 7.—Clyde B. Aitchison, of Portland, Ore., has been elected chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the ensuing year.

$2,410,000 IS SOUGHT FOR NEW ROADS

To relieve traffic congestion between Boston and points on the South Shore, the Metropolitan Planning Commission is urging the construction of two new highways at a total cost of $2,410,000.

The Commission has filed the plans for the highways with the Legislature with the recommendation that the construction of the boulevards be authorized.

The first highway the commission deems necessary would start at Mattapan square, running to Milton, East Milton and Quincy. It would run along Blue Hill avenue to Brook road, to Adams street, near East Milton, and thence along a widened Adams street to the Furnace Brook Parkway and along the Parkway to a point east of Hancock street, where a new road would start and extend to the junction of Valley and Sea streets, where it would join the Pilgrim highway. This boulevard would cost approximately $835,000.

The second highway proposed would start at Blue Hill avenue and Morton street, following Morton street to Codman street, to Marsh street, across the Neponset bridge and thence song the Quincy Shore drive to Black Creek, over the Pilgrim Highway to Washington street at its junction with North street and thence to Quincy avenue at its juncture with an extension of North street. This highway would cost $1,575,000.

GETS CHECKS TWO YEARS OLD AS PAY FOR CITY JOB

Quincy, Jan. 7.—Lou's K. Badger, former district chief of the fire department, who was removed two years ago by ex-Mayor Bates, runs a garage on Adams street.

On May 18, 1923, he did a job for the city amounting to $7.40. On January 18, 1924, he sent in a bill for $9.60 for another job.

Today he got checks for both jobs, one check drawn nearly two years ago and the second made out a year ago.

Three Governors in Three Days in Connecticut

Hartford, Ct., Jan. 7.—Connecticut had one Governor yesterday. It had a new one today and will have a third on Thursday.

Hiram Bingham took office surrounded by all the pomp that nearly three centuries have made traditional in Connecticut. He will serve until Thursday morning, when he will resign to take office as United States Senator, relinquishing the governorship to John H. Trumbull, Lieutenant-Governor-elect.

SEARLES CASE IS SENT TO THE JURY

The case of the Commonwealth against four men accused of conspiring to extort money from Victor A. Searles was given to the jury in Superior Court today.

The defendants in the case are William J. Corcoran, William J. Kelly, William J. Hartnett and Thomas Devine.

A few minutes after the jury had left the courtroom the men returned and foreman John W. Welch asked Judge Raymond whether if the jury found two or more of the defendants not guilty, it would be possible within the law to find one defendant guilty.

Judge Raymond ruled that because two women, Eleanor Barnes and Blanche Paul had pleaded guilty before the trial began, the jury could find one of the present defendants guilty of being a co-conspirator even if it freed the others.

1919 POLICE CLUB IN 5TH ANNUAL BANQUET

The fifth annual banquet of the Boston Police 1919 Charter Members' Association was held last night at the Hotel Westminster. More than twenty of the forty members attended. The club is made up of men who had taken the police examinations before the 1919 strike and were appointed to the force immediately afterward.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found how to save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for results. It gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

100 ARE CAUGHT IN NEW YORK CITY RAID

New York, January 7.—Almost 100 young men and girls, many of the men Japanese and Filipinos, were arrested early today by a squad of twelve policemen who raided a dancing hall on the upper East Side here.

The prisoners were taken only after the police had battered down a door on being denied admittance and had engaged in a free-for-all fight.

Herman Winter, alleged proprietor of the place, was charged with maintaining a public nuisance while the patrons were charged with disorderly conduct. Traffic in the district was held up for more than an hour while patrol wagons were removing the prisoners, among whom were twelve men in the uniform of the United States Navy.

Many of the girls were still in their 'teens and said that they were employed as dancing partners in the place.

EAST BOSTON BOY MISSING FROM HOME

The readers of the Boston American are asked to aid in the search being made for 16-year-old Eugene Ryan of No. 33 Moore street, East Boston, who disappeared from his home Monday morning. His parents say that there was no reason for the boy leaving, and they fear that he has met with an accident or foul play.

Ryan is described as appearing two or three years older than he is, and when last seen he was wearing a brown overcoat, blue sweater, gray trousers, a gray cap and brown shoes and stockings.

200 SHAKEN AS TRUCK HITS TROLLEYS

East Boston Traffic Delayed by an Accident on Meridian Street

A two-car surface train of the Boston Elevated and a heavy truck crashed on Meridian street, East Boston, today, shaking up 200 passengers in the cars.

Inbound traffic was delayed twenty minutes, many persons on their way to work finding it necessary to walk to Maverick square. No one was injured.

The accident occurred, according to the police, when William R. Frawley, of No. 2 Cedric street, Roxbury, a driver for the Fred T. Ley Company, attempted to make the turn from Meridian into London street. A ladder protruding from the truck crashed through the vestibule of the first car. Motorman Frank Peace escaped injury.

As Frawley attempted to clear his truck the front car and the machine came together. Both vehicles had slowed to a speed that prevented injury to their occupants.

Mind a Blank 40 Days, Girl Asks for Mother

Identified Many Times, But Real Name Is Still a Mystery

Theoretical elopements, mysterious phone calls, unexplained initials, and a deep and impenetrable wall of silence beyond which not even the most skilled psychiatrist can probe.

And finally—"I want to find my mother—oh, I want to find my mother! Can't you help me remember? Oh, please have somebody come and take me away to my mother!"

The famous "mystery co-ed" picked up half conscious on November 21 at the Union Station, who has forgotten her identity, and who seems to have been as completely forgotten, sat in her room at the County Hospital today, fingering bits of colored silk with which she was embroidering a little towel, trying to remember.

ALL MIXED UP.

"I'm all mixed up inside," she said, "I can think of facts, but they don't mean anything—they're all unrelated. I remember that I played hockey and tennis and golf when I was at school, but I can't remember where I went to school.

"I can read Spanish, run a typewriter, and read shorthand, and I know a little Latin and French. But I can't remember where or why I learned all those things.

"I know my mother and father are alive, and I remember that mother's hair is gray, but their names just slip away from me, even when I lie awake at night to remember them.

"I am familiar with both the University of Illinois and the University of Chicago, but all the names I've remembered there have been wrong. Why doesn't somebody see my picture and come and recognize me?

"I wait and wait, and hope, and nobody comes!"

The girl, who has baffled physicians and psychiatrists for weeks, was brought to the hospital from the Union Station, where she had been found wandering about in a daze.

She complained of pain at the base of her skull, and was ill for several days.

There were no marks or labels on her clothing, and in a paper tablet, filled with notes seemingly taken in a medical course, were the initials E. H. S. and the words Phi Beta Kappa.

MYSTERY GIRL.

Every effort to follow these clues has been in vain.

Since she has been in the hospital, officials have been deluged with letters, phone calls, pictures and even visitors, all seeking to find some lost girl whom they thought tallied with the mystery co-ed's description.

MANY IDENTIFICATIONS.

She has been identified several times, but each time the identification proved wrong.

A doctor called up and said she might be one of his patients who had eloped with a Northwestern University frat man, while an Indianapolis lawyer insisted she was one of his clients, a Mrs. Ethel Smith, whose husband had supposedly deserted her.

"Charlotte Norris," "Helen Dilla," "Annie Laurie Cooper" and "Evelyn Schroeder" are some of the names under which she was temporarily identified.

Warden Zimmer is now trying to arrange to get her some definite work in the office of the hospital until her pleas to help remember have been answered.

Put Mystery Man's Voice on Radio to Get Clews

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 7.—Radio will carry from a local broadcasting station today the voice of Norfolk's "Mystery Man," who has baffled all other means of establishing his identity.

Found straying near Cape Charles two months ago and now believed to be a victim of aphasia, the individual who will speak over the air has in turn been a charge of immigration authorities, local police and lastly of charity during fruitless efforts to detremine his identity.

Occasional words of various languages have been caught in his utterances, which otherwise have been unintelligible to experts.

ISLANDERS, CUT OFF 30 DAYS, REACH MAINLAND

London, Jan. 7.—The tempest having abated, five inhabitants of the island of Bardsey, off the southwest point of Carnarvonshire, cut off from the mainland for a month by gales, have crossed the strait.

"King" Pritchard, who is 84 years old, said the islanders' food ran low during their isolation, but that privation was prevented by emergency stores.

His own greatest distress was caused by the shortage of tobacco, as he was compelled to smoke coltsfoot leaves, which gave him a headache.

PLANNING NON-STOP FLIGHT TO HAWAII

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 7.—According to information brought to Rockwell Field here by Captain Lowell H. Smith, who commanded the American globe-circling squadron of army planes, two important flights may be undertaken by United States military airmen in the present year.

One flight, now being considered, is a non-stop flight from San Francisco to Hawaii. Lieutenant Charles H. Doolittle has applied for permission to make that flight.

HURT AS TRUCK HITS AN ELEVATED UPRIGHT

Antonio Socco, 30 years old, of No. 17 Adams street, Malden, received severe bruises about the body today when an auto truck he was driving skidded into an elevated upright on Main street, Charlestown, hurling him to the street. Socco is at the Haymarket Relief Station.

WOMAN IN BATTLE WITH THIEF IN HOUSE

Worcester, Jan. 7.—Finding a thief in her home when she returned to her three children after a shopping tour, Mrs. Ovilda Hachey grappled with the intruder, who, though unable to shake her off, succeeded in dragging her into the street.

TOO MANY TALK DRY, ACT WET, SAYS SMITH

New York Governor Tells the Legislature the Volstead Law Must Be Enforced

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Governor Smith told the new Legislature in his message to it today that the Volstead act must be enforced, but that no further legislation was necessary in this respect.

The legislative program of the Republicans who control both branches of be Legislature includes a State prohibition enforcement act to supplant the Mullan-Gage law, which was repealed in a previous administration of Governor Smith, and with his approval.

"Any sensible man or woman can readily realize that we have law, but what we lack is enforcement," said Governor Smith. After pointing out that "every peace officer and every official of the State charged with the enforcement of law should enforce the Volstead act as vigorously as he would any State statute or any mandate of the Constitution itself," Governor Smith said:

"The whole question of enforcement of the Federal act sustaining the eighteenth amendment is imbedded in insincerity and hypocrisy. We are suffering from too many statesmen who talk dry and act wet."

The Governor said that if the State, municipal and Federal governments carry out their duties each in his own sphere "open and flagrant disregard of the law will cease as far as our State is concerned."

Governor Smith said he was in hearty accord with the proposed Federal child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution, but he advocated a referendum on the amendment to ascertain the wishes of the people of the State.

PRINCESS ANASTASIA'S PEARLS TO BE SOLD

New York, Jan. 7.—The famous string of forty-three pearls, worth nearly a million dollars, belonging to the late Princess Anastasia of Greece, over the first importation of which a legal battle was fought all the way to the United States Supreme Court, have been entered for appraisal at this port.

The pearls, given to the late Princess by William B. Leeds, former tin plate magnate, seventeen years ago, will now, should no further differences over their incoming ensue, be sold as part of a trust fund for the sister of the late princess, Mrs. Henderson Green of Montclair, N. J., young William B. Leeds says.

SUITCASE MURDER TO REOPEN

Dr. Swope Faces Trial as Accessory in Mrs. Wolschendorf's Death

More than 15 months after the Merrimac River gave up the dismembered portions of a woman's body, Dr. Dalva H. Swope, prominent Brockton physician faces trial for his alleged part in the "suit case mystery."

Dr. William M. Robb, Boston physician, whose operation was responsible for the death of Mrs. Alice Wolschendorf of East Bridgewater and who confessed to dismembering her body, packing it in suitcases and an automobile trunk and then disposing of the gruesome bundles, already has served more than a year of his five to seven years sentence.

Dr. Swope, charged with being an accessory to the operation which killed the East Bridgewater woman, after serving several months in jail has been out on bail awaiting trial.

WILLETT CASE DELAY.

The Willett-Sears $15,000,000 damage suit, which tied up the East Dedham Court for more than a year, was responsible for the delay in bringing Dr. Swope to trial.

The doctor's counsel is former District Attorney Frederick G. Katzman of Norfolk County and he was also counsel in the Willett-Sears case.

The Middlesex court agreed to delay the trial of Dr. Swope until the end of the Willett case, having no idea the trial would last for more than a year.

The date for Dr. Swope's trial has been set for January 19.

The defence has built up what it claims is an impregnable case and the defence attorneys declare that the Brockton doctor will be acquitted.

SWOPE BLAMED.

The contention of the State is that it was due to the directions of Dr. Swope that Mrs. Wolschendorf went to the office of Dr. Robb in Boston where she underwent the operation that resulted in her death. No evidence has ever been uncovered to connect Dr. Swope with the case after Mrs. Wolschendorf was driven to Boston by her employer and her son, to undergo the operation, it is contended.

Mrs. Wolschendorf, forty-three years of age and the mother of four children, became estranged from her husband at a time when a visit of the stork was anticipated. She did not wish to become a mother again and it is alleged by the Commonwealth that she consulted with Dr. Swope who in turn directed her to the Boston physician.

Dr. Swope's defence will be that he had no part in the fatal operation and knew nothing of what was to happen or did happen when Mrs. Wolschendorf came to Boston.

WOMAN WRITER PLANS TO SWIM WITHOUT SUIT

Winsted, Jan. 7.—Realty values adjacent to the Pfaefflin homestead, partly in Colebrook and partly in this town, are looking up since Miss Ruth Cross, native of Texas and author of "The Golden Cocoon," acquired the property and announcement was made that she would dam a brook running through her land, creating a swimming pool, where she could perfect her strokes without being hampered with the conventional bathing suit.

The pool water will be stocked with goldfish and the top of the dam screened to prevent trout and other fish that climb waterfalls entering the pool and killing the goldfish.

MAINE SLAYER GETS PARDON FROM GOVERNOR

Augusta, Me., Jan. 7.—A full and free pardon was granted by the Governor and Council to Guivanno Noto, a former resident of Jay, who was convicted in the Supreme Court for Franklin County in 1911 of the murder of a fellow Italian. Noto has always claimed that he committed the deed in self-defense. He was serving a life sentence.

Pardons were denied to Charles E. Galvin, Richard S. Vereker, Charles Smith and Charles Powell, all of Houlton, who are serving sentences in the Aroostook County jail for liquor selling, being convicted in the State Court.

Britain's Fight for Opium Denounced as World Menace

By C. F. BERTELLI

(Special Cable Dispatch to the Hearst Newspapers.)

Paris, Jan. 7.—Noted Frenchmen united today in sounding a warning note against the perils of opium traffic in interviews given exclusively to the Hearst newspapers. Louis Loucheur, former Cabinet Minister, who is considered the coming man in France, said:

"The Great Powers of the World have an imperative duty before them. No matter what the sacrifice they must aid in America's fight against the great plagues which are now killing off humanity—war, alcohol, opium and tuberculosis.

PRODUCTIVE OF WAR

"I say this in spite of the fact that French Indo-China is one of the great producers of opium. We stand to lose tremendously, but for the honor of the Nation this immoral trade must cease."

Paul Bonazet, Under-Secretary of State and High French Commissioner for War, said:

"Continuance of the opium trade will inevitably mean a frightful international conflict. And it will not be the first 'opium war.' The question of opium, considering the present situation in the Pacific, is fraught with the gravest world consequences."

WOULD SUBSTITUTE POOR GRADE

"The opium trade of the World is controlled by England, for whom it is a source of shameful but formidable profits," declared Chenles Outrey, the only representative of the French Parliament in French Indo-China. Outrey declared that England is trying to undersell pure Chinese opium with a species termed "Benares."

Incidentally, Outrey revealed one of the principal causes of international drug rivalry by asserting that Britain has been striving to force consumption of the inferior "Benares" opium on the population of China in place of that which is raised in China itself, as well as that which comes from the French and Dutch colonies.

LAWSON'S MILLIONS WASTED

Poured Fortune Into Trinity Mine Development That Proved "Flivver"

THIS is the thirty-first chapter of the adventurous career of Thomas W. Lawson, one-time financial mogul, now broken in health and spirit and close to poverty. Previous chapters have related his adventures in finance, in home building, and as an author.

ONE of the aliases used by Tom Lawson in the Trinity copper boom was "Willie White" or "William White."

Over this signature the financier was enabled to take many more liberties than he would have been had his own name been signed to his highly original advertisements.

In 1907 he was so elated over the results of his "Willie White" ballyhooing that he printed in the Boston papers as an advertisement for no reason at all the following jingle:

There was a man in our town,
And his name was Willie White.
He walked the Curb with a plumb line gait
And begrudged no man his bite.
But his tootsies had a saucy curve—
They carried the sign: "I fight
The man who treads on me or mine
At morn or noon or night."
Oh Willie, Willie, Willie White,
You are a troublesome, wrangling kid.
Why can't you tend your bobbing kite
And let what's done be did?

$4,000,000 Smelter

It may have been a bit of gloating over the $6,000,000 stock sale in two months—or it may have been something else again—that inspired the doggerel.

But all of this $6,000,000 did not remain in Lawson's pocket or the pockets of the mine operatives.

As a grand "splurge" to seduce other investors into the fold a few of these six millions—Lawson has asserted that the spending price was in the region of $4,000,000—went into a huge smelter.

The smelter was set up at the Trinity mine with all ceremonies and much fanfare. It was a tremendous engine and it dressed up the mine in a style befitting one of the ancient King Solomon's.

It was the biggest "lemon" of the entire Trinity sweep. Not more than a week had the smelter been in operation when Lawson was given real grounds for bad news in his Trinity advertisements, but at a time when he did not desire the bad news.

The farmers for twenty miles around the Trinity mine objected strenuously to the new smelter. Then, objections proving of no avail, they went to court and secured a temporary injunction on the ground that the sulphur fumes were killing crops and injuring stock.

A short time later the injunction was made permanent and the $4,000,000 smelter ceased operations.

Never since that day has a cog moved in the smelter or a wave of heat, other than that induced by the blazing sun's rays, warmed the metal of it.

Missing Wife

MRS. ALMA WORDEN.

ASKS AID IN LOCATING HIS MISSING WIFE

An appeal has been made by Wilbur O. Worden, of Jamaica Plain, to the Boston American to aid him in a search for his wife, Alma Worden, who left her home No. 429 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, last May.

According to Worden, his wife went out of their home saying that she would be back later in the day. She failed to come back that day, and her husband did not see her again until sometime in August, when she visited her home for about two hours and disappeared again. She has not been seen or heard from since.

Mr. Worden believes his wife wants to come back to him, but is prevented by outside influence. Through the Boston American, he asks her to come back.

Mrs. Worden is 24 years old, is five feet four inches tall, has bobbed auburn hair, and wears glasses. She probably wears a brown coat with a fur collar. Her husband wishes her to communicate with him through General Delivery, Central Post Office, Boston.

PREVENTS DECAY OF ROOTS

Copper Amalgam Solution Hailed as Solving Long Dental Problem

Members of the dental profession in Boston today were highly elated over the announcement from Canada that dental science in the future can prevent infections at the roots of filled teeth.

The discovery made by Dr. F. C. Husband, a Toronto dentist, is doubly important because use of it may be made by every dentist, without elaborate equipment or special technical training.

The use of copper amalgam as a permanent filling for the root canals of decayed teeth is the sum and substance of Dr. Husband's discovery.

Materials used by the dental profession for the filling of teeth up until this time have not closed the root canals properly. Infection has always been possible in the unfilled canals, such infections frequently resulting in rheumatism, heart trouble, diseases of the eyes and other serious ailments, without the sufferer, in many instances, being able to recognize the cause.

The copper amalgam, when used in a tooth cavity, fills all the root cavities completely, while the nature of the composition prevents the setting up of an infection of any kind.

Copper amalgam as a material for filling teeth has been used by some dentists for a number of years, but its germicidal effects on the root cavities of teeth have never been recognized.

Five years ago, Dr. Husband began his experiments with copper amalgam at the University of Toronto. The experimental work has been carried on during these five years and the results have been checked and rechecked with the greatest of care, until the full value of the copper filling was an established fact.

NURMI ALMOST CERTAIN TO RUN AT B. A. A. GAMES JAN.

SOUGHT BY 3 OTHER N. E. CITIES

Paavo Nurmi, Finnish running marvel, who broke three world's records at New York last night, will in all probability appear at the B. A. A. games at the Arena on January 31, according to an announcement today by Manager Tom Kanaly of the B. A. A.

Frederick W. Rubien of New York, who is looking after Nurmi's interests in this country gave Kanay to understand that he would do all in his power to entice the "greatest piece of human machinery" to run for Boston "fans."

There is nothing definite, however, for Nurmi himself cannot understand how so many meets are slated in one season. In his country but three meets are staged during the season, and when those are completed racing is at an end.

There is also some talk of Nurmi appearing in Portland, Worcester and Fitchburg. The latter two cities have a large number of Finnish residents who have been besieging Nurmi with requests to come.

Kanaly saw Nurmi in his two races last night and in his opinion the Finn is the greatest runner that ever drew on a track shoe. "Running indoors or outdoors Nurmi has no equal or never had one," said Kanaly today. "The banked corners did not puzzle hi many."

"He was wearing spiked shoes for the first time and did all his training for the Finnish games with sneakers on a concrete surface.

"The announcement that he will stay in this country until April or May is pleasant news. An effort will be made to arrange an outdoor meet that Nurmi might show the people of this country he has the goods for kinds of running."

FIRST HARVARD GRID MEETING TONIGHT

The first of Harvard's fortnightly football meetings, which are to be held throughout the Winter for next year's football men, will take place tonight at the varsity club at 7 o'clock.

Malcolm J. Logan, chairman of the newly appointed football advisary committee, and Coach Eddie Farrell of the Crimson track team, will be the speakers. In addition moving pictures of the recent Harvard-Yale football game will be shown.

Innovations in the football coaching system are expected to follow the first meeting of the advisory committee, to be held in Cambridge sometime next week. At this meeting, Logan and his committee will take up the business of selecting a football coach for the varsity team next year.

RUGGERI APPOINTED TUFTS MAT COACH

Graduate Manager Charles H. Downes announced that Sam Ruggeri had been appointed wrestling coach at Tufts. Ruggeri was captain of the wrestling team at the college in 1918 and has appeared in amateur bouts the last few years.

Wrestling has been conducted the last two years at Tufts under the direction of a student coach.

'IT WAS EASY!' SAYS NURMI OF 3 WORLD MARKS

New York, January 7 (A.P.). — "They were two easy races."

This terse statement came from a lithe, unassuming youth who had just met and conquered America's best athletes and a star of his homeland in two separate events and had established three world records on the board track at Madison Square Garden, a brand of competition entirely new to him.

Paavo Nurmi, sensation of Finland and of the world, was speaking, and he explained, through interpreters, that he did not intend to belittle the efforts of his opponents, but rather to make plain that he suffered no inconvenience in capturing the mile race, in which the little blonde Joie Ray of Chicago broke his own world record only to be beaten by the invader, and the 5,000 meters, in which he ran step by step with Willie Ritola until the last moments and then left him far behind.

"AMERICA WONDERFUL."

"America is wonderful," he said. "Its people have treated me handsomely and I appreciate the tremendous ovation accorded my performance. It did not seem that I was in a strange land, although the board track and indoor breathing were new to me.

"I think, however, if one gets accustomed to indoor running he would like it as well as work on a cinder track. I felt just as well when I finished as I did when I started in the first pace.

"I expect to remain in the United States until April or May and will participate in several indoor meets."

TRACK WORLD AWHIRL.

Nurmi's presence set America and world track records in a whirl. The Finn broke two records in the mile run, finishing in 4:13 3-5, a full second ahead of Ray's former time. Ray also beat his own record, but his effort was not enough, for Nurmi was three yards ahead.

The Finn in the same race established a mark of 3:56 1-5 for 1,500 meters, another record formerly held by Ray.

In the last event of the night the invader romped away from his countryman, Ritola, to a new world mark of 14:44 3-5 in the 5,000 meters, 10 seconds better than Ray in 1919.

MURCHISON AT IT, TOO.

It was Nurmi's night; that could not be denied. There was another on the floor who established two world records and shattered another, and for him there was no throng of devotees to drag him about and make the presence of a police escort necessary.

He was well known, a native of the United States, and his ability had been tested on this same battleground.

Loren Murchison, marvelous dash man of the Newark A. C., was running in form. He cut a fifth of a second from his own 220-yard figures, and established marks of twenty-nine seconds for 250 meters and six seconds for fifty meters.

Then Alan Helfrich of Penn State raced to a mark of 1.05 4-5, in the 500-meters event, the sixth epochmaking performance.

COBB CONSIDERING CAVENEY AND FONSECA

Coincinnati, Ohio., Jan. 7.—The Detroit Americans are willing to take Lew Fonseca and Jimmy Caveney, two infielders of the Cincinnati Nationals, according to reports at Cincinnati National headquarters.

National league club signed waivers on the two Reds, who failed to have a good season last year because of injuries.

BROOKLINE AND BROCKTON IN TRACK CLASH

By FRED C. LANE.

Brookline High School, with the best looking track team in Greater Boston, meets a worthy foe and one of the fastest growing High schools in Massachusetts athletically when it clashes with Brockton High on Saturday evening at the Brookline gymnasium.

There is no doubt that after the trimming Brookline administered to Newton High, Coach Hines' boys will be heard from this Winter. Any squad that can carry off four-fifths of the points in a meet will bear watching.

The Brockton team of this year does not match up with the splendid club that carried the standard last year. Graduations have hurt. Yet the interest aroused by the success attained in 1924 has brought forth one of the largest turnouts of candidates ever to report to Coach George Chamberlain. The folks of Brockton are behind their athletic teams, and have shown their willingness to help by giving over the State Armory of the city for training purposes.

But a handful of Brockton's successful team of last year will face Brookline.

In the 300-yard dash there is Captain Steve Walsh, Jim Spillane and Red Doherty. Elvin Sandstrom, winner of the 100 and 220 at the Huntington meet, will uphold Brockton in the dash and short distance sprints.

The field in the 600 has many promising candidates with Gordon Miller, Gus Simon, Mike Grigas, Johnny Roslie and Jack Saunders.

For the high jump there is Alonzo Johnson, Graham Smith and George Clifford.

Waldron Kelley, Eddie Dunghy, George Sheehan and Paul Cerenowski are four of the new candidates that show promise. In all probability Coach Chamberlain will groom them for the distance runs, for all four show ability in this respect.

School Notes

Pat Creedon, considered one of the finest scroolboy halfbacks in New England, is captain of the Brockton basketball team this year and will devote all his time to that sport.

• • •

Boston Latin School, for the first time in many seasons, will be strong in the field events. In the past the purple and white school has relied upon the dash and middle distance runs for points.

• • •

The Latin relay team this season will be the equal of last year's combination that brought heaps of honors to the school. Though "Vinny" Sullivan, brother of John, now at B. C., and Frank O'Brien are all that remains of the 1924 campaigners, Coach Fitzgerald has but to pick two boys from Wilson, Hoye, Bob Sullivan and Captain Holdeman to produce another winner.

• • •

Captain Holdeman will run the 600 yard again this year along with Frank O'Brien. Bert Lima, intermediate shotput winner last season, will compete this season as a senior in the same event. Guilford is the best looking junior over the 160-yard route. Webster in the broad jump and Nelson in the high jump round out the outstanding members of the team.

O'CONNELL IS MADE GOAT AGAIN

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.). — The prompt action of Dan Maher, president of the California Basketball League, in dropping Jimmy O'Connell, blacklisted ballplayer, from the organization's ranks has saved George Kelly, Sammy Bohne and three other ball players from making a serious blunder, President Heydler of the National League declared today.

President Heydler made this assertion in a statement in which he indicated he regarded O'Connell's dismissal as closing the developments which stirred baseball circles yesterday after it had been disclosed that Kelly, first sacker of the Giants, and Bohne, Cincinnati infielder, were members of the same San Francisco basketball team as O'Connell, former Giant outfielder banished for attempted bribery.

Herrmann Tells Bohne He Can't Play Basketball

Cincinnati, Jan. 6.—August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati National League Baseball Club, today announced that Infielder Sam Bohne will be forbidden to play basketball on the Pacific Coast.

"Bohne never asked permission to play basketball, as his contract requires," Herrmann said. "He will be forbidden to participate further in the sport by the Cincinnati club."

San Francisco, Cal., Jan 7.—Sammy Bohne, member of the Cincinnati Reds baseball club, will not be permitted to play in the California basketball league, it was announced today by Dan P. Maher, president of the league, after an exchange of telegrams with August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati club.

ST. JOE'S TO STAGE SATURDAY NIGHT SHOWS

Amateur boxing on Saturday nights will become a feature for ring followers of the St. Joseph's T. A. S. of the West End. According to an announcement made last night by W. H. Cuddy, the first Saturday night tourney will be held this week end.

There will be five classes on the card, three open divisions and two for novices. The novices will participate in the 118 and 135 pound classes while the 112, 126 and 147 pound classes will be open.

Entries can be made with W. H. Cuddy, No. 95 Cambridge street. Reservations can be made at Room 10, No. 258 Washington street.

M. I. T. BASEBALL DEAD UNTIL 1926

The advisory council on athletics M. I. T. has announced that the college would not be represented by a baseball team this year. Next year the chances for a team look good, as the land purchased on the west side of the institute will in all probability be laid out for a diamond and bleachers to accommodate the students.

It was also announced by the advisory committee that no student who took part in athletics at any other prominent college will be eligible to represent M. I. T.

BROOKLINE SWIMMING CLUB NAMES OFFICERS

Brookline Swimming Club held its annual meeting in the Brookline Municipal Bathhouse and discussed plans for coming swimming meets. Ben James was re-elected president; Herbert H. Holm, vice-president; David B. Church, secretary, and L. J. Johnson, treasurer. Joe McCarthy and Fred Wagner were elected to the executive committee. The new club captain chosen is Alfred Clifford.

HARRIS AND GRIFFITH LEAVE FOR FLORIDA

Washington, Jan. 7. — President Clark Griffith and Manager "Bucky" Harris of the Washington baseball team leave here today for Tampa, Fla., where they will make ready for the advance guard of the world champion Senators, scheduled to start for camp February 20. Manager Harris will leave Tampa February 1 for Hot Springs, Ark., where a squad of Washington veterans will boil out for a month.

BROWN, DARTMOUTH AND BOWDOIN IN RELAY

Brunswick, Me., Jan. 7.—Bowdoin will run in a triangular relay race against Dartmouth and Brown at the Boston Athletic Association games, it was stated this afternoon by Coach John J. Magee.

CHAPMAN SIGNS TO BOX RUTH IN PHILLY

Red Chapman, claimant of the New England feather title, has been matched to box Kid Ruth on January 19 at the Arena A. C., Philadelphia. It is a scheduled tenrounder.

Senators Declare 40 P. C. Dividend After Paying $124,000

Washington, Jan. 7. — In strengthening the team for its world's championship achievement and for the supreme effort to repeat this year, the Washington American League club parted with $124,000 in hard cash last year for new talent.

The treasurer's report to the annual meeting of stockholders, at which a 40 per cent. dividend was declared, showed that $15,000 of the total outlay was recovered in the sale of players.

Of the total outlay $50,000 went for the purchase of Earl McNeely, the outfielder who made the "hundred thousand-dollar" two-base hit that won the final game and the world series from the Giants.

The figures showed the Senators paid Seattle $10,000 for its veteran hurler, Vean Gregg, and Brooklyn $8,000 for Dutch Reuther.

Six Coaches Will Be Considered for N.Y. University Job

New York, Jan. 7.—Six football coaches will be considered for the post at New York University vacated by Tom Thorp, when the board of athletic managers meets this afternoon.

The list includes John F. (Chick) Meehan, who recently resigned as mentor at Syracuse University; Harry Stuhldreher, all-American Notre Dame quarterback; Bob Folwell, formerly of Pennsylvania and the Navy; Eddie Butler, Thorp's assistant at N. Y. U. for two years; Fred Dawson, who recently became athletic director at Nebraska and a former coach in the East, and Sol Metzger, of Penn and Washington & Jefferson fame.

In the event that no decision is reached today, the appointment will be delayed for a week or so, according to Henry C. Hathaway, chairman of the board of managers.

Tufts Starts Big Drive for Track Candidates

Tufts athletic authorities launch an intensive drive for track material this afternoon at a meeting in the college chapel. Coach William Meanix will outline the plans for the coming season.

More than 100 track candidates who have had previous experience at high or prep schools are expected to attend. Littlefield will comb the campus looking for material that has not yet reported. During the past week Fen Riley, former Medford High sensation joined the squad.

Dual meets with Northeastern and Boston University are carded for the opening of the track season. To aid further in uncovering talent interfraternity meets as well as the annual interclass meet will be held.

Carroll, St. James Coach, Quits For College Berth

Haverhill, Jan 7.—Coach James "Bodger" Carroll, of the St. James High football team, claimants of the State schoolboy championship, has retired, according to reports.

While Carroll refuses to admit that he is contemplating a change, Augustus Hurley, faculty manager of football, announced that Carroll has resigned and has accepted a berth as coach at Loyola College, near Baltimore, Md.

Only recently Carroll is said to have turned down an offer of $3,800 to coach football at Haverhill High. Carroll is a graduate of Haverhill and Georgetown.

GOODREAU TO COACH AT HAVERHILL HIGH

Haverhill, Jan. 7.—Edmund J. Goodreau, teacher and assistant athletic coach at Malden High School, has been elected by the local school board teacher and athletic coach at Haverhill High School, succeeding Charles Dickerman, resigned. The new coach will begin his duties in September.

Mr. Goodreau will not have charge of the football team, it was stated, unless the effort to obtain another coach for that position is unsuccessful. Goodreau will teach and coach basketball and baseball.

The salary of Goodreau was placed at $2,8500 for teaching and $1,350 for coaching.

FUCHS COMES TO TOWN TO VISIT FARRELL

Judge Fuchs, vice-president of the Braves, is on a flying visit to Charley Farrell, who is a patient at the Carney Hospital, where he underwent a serious operation for abdominal trouble. The judge will be in town for a few days.

Fuchs said nothing regarding deals contemplated by the Boston club.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 7.—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, will make a great effort to win the world's light heavyweight championship when he clashes with Mike McTigue in a twelve-round [illegible] tonight.

The fact that no decisions are permitted under the New Jersey law means that Walker will have to win by a knockout or a foul to gain McTigue's title.

It is one of the most unusual matches in the history of the American ring. The weight for Walker is 147 pounds while McTigue also has a weight of 175 [illegible]. In the past welterweights [illegible] the middleweight [illegible] the [illegible] class being 160 pounds [illegible] they have not gone forth [illegible] the world's [illegible] heavyweight [illegible].

WALKER WEIGHS 153

Walker is expected to [illegible] at 153 pounds [illegible] the weigh [illegible] McTigue will scale [illegible] 173 pounds.

Walker has often given away a [illegible] deal of weight to opponents [illegible] and New England fans will remember the occasion when Mickey, weighing 146 pounds, battled Lou Bogash, 162 pounds, at the Arena [illegible] won the decision by a narrow margin. Walker coming [illegible] in the closing rounds. [illegible] defeated Jack Britton for the world's welterweight championship.

Walker is a GREAT fighter. Like Dempsey he is a real ring [illegible]. He has not a serious contender in the welterweight division. [illegible] Dave Shade named by the New York Athletic Commission as the [illegible] challenger was easy for him when these men met [illegible] several years ago.

M'TIGUE FALSE ALARM.

Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, agreed to battle Walker last summer only to discover at the last minute he had an injured [illegible] and Leonard was tipped that Walker was likely to knock him out.

While Walker is a GREAT fighter, McTigue has proved a false alarm. It is charged here that Mike has the weight of a light heavy, but a welterweight heart. He won the light heavyweight title by defeating Battling Siki in Ireland on St. Patrick's day. [illegible] in condition to fight. McTigue stood off at long range [illegible].

Young Stribling later defeated McTigue at Columbus, Ga. Mike's [illegible] referee saved his title [illegible] the bout a draw. When McTigue and Stribling met again at [illegible] Stribling won the newspaper decision.

GREAT INTEREST IN GO.

McTigue even though he will be [illegible] by a welterweight tonight is expected to try to win by a [illegible]. It is believed he will stand and try to outpoint the rushing welterweight champion who relies upon his aggressiveness and punch to win.

There is tremendous interest in the bout on account of the unusual weight difference between the rival champions and the fact that New Jersey is Walker's home State while McTigue lives in New York.

There is [illegible] the result [illegible] the battle as a knockout is [illegible] and [illegible] no decision bouts at best are unsatisfactory af[illegible].

CHARLES RIVER GOLFERS TO MEET JANUARY 22

RUNYON SAYS:

Dr. Fralick Has Curious Hobby.

He Mends the Boxers' "Bad Hands."

He Repaired "Punch-'em's" Punchers.

Also Fixed Up the Panther's Paws.

Damages Due to Improper Hitting.

By Damon Runyon

DR. W. G. FRALICK, famous New York surgeon, has a little hobby.

This hobby is mending the damaged hands of boxers.

Dr. Fralick's specialty is abdominal surgery. His skill in that line is eagerly sought, he is a very busy man. He turns to the repairing of boxers' hands almost as a relaxation, a diversion.

But there is another reason which developed during a talk this reporter had with Dr. Fralick not long ago. It is a philanthropic phase, a nice little sidelight on the character of the doctor.

"I've always been more or less interested in boxing just as a sport," said Dr. Fralick. "I think that in most cases it develops the young fellows engaged in it physically and otherwise, but for boxing they might be doing far worse things.

"Many of them a lot of them sustain injuries especially to their hands. These are the tools of their trade. Without them the boxers are helpless. Many a promising young career has been ruined by damage that might easily have been repaired, and I feel that in doing the work for the kids I may be helping them to better themselves in the world."

DR. FRALICK now produced a big bundle of X-ray photographs of hands he has mended, hands belonging to some of the most noted fighters of the day.

Here was an X-ray [illegible] of the hands of Harry Wills, "The Brown Panther of New Orleans." Wills' hands were for [illegible] notoriously bad. They [illegible] the ring. [illegible] broken [illegible].

Dr. Fralick operated on the hand and Wills has [illegible] Luis Angel Firpo [illegible] both fights as effectively as if it had never been injured.

Dr. Fralick performed a most intricate operation on the hand [illegible] and [illegible] the great [illegible].

Louis Kaplan, featherweight from Meriden, Ct.

Jeff Smith, Bayonne middleweight.

Jack Perry, Pittsburgh welterweight.

Jack Zivic, Pittsburgh welterweight.

THE list is given in detail to show the reader to what extent "bad hands" prevail among the professional boxers.

You will observe that in the list are men accounted great boxers, fast, scientific, notably Jeff Smith, Gene Tunney, Mike McTigue and Phil Krug.

Yet "bad hands," as Dr. Fralick told this writer, are commonly due to improper hitting. The boxer who gets his hands broken up because he does not first learn how to punch. Perhaps the clever men weakened the structure of their hands before they learned their business.

Another cause, one that could be more easily remedied than the first, is poor bandaging by the second before the boxer goes into the ring.

"THE method of bandaging a boxer's hands is almost barbaric," said Dr. Fralick. "They haven't changed this method since the earliest days of the glove game, and probably two-thirds of the injured hands can be traced to faulty bandages.

"The boxing authorities have some rather foolish restrictions on bandages. They might well change this rule and permit more scientific bandaging, then we wouldn't have so many injured hands. If a young fellow learns how to strike his blows properly, and has his hands intelligently bandaged, there isn't one chance in a thousand that his hands will be injured.

"But until the youngsters are better schooled and the bandages properly applied I suppose I'll be adding to this collection of pictures here."

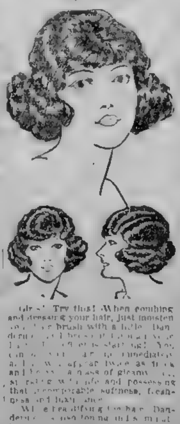
A Gleamy Mass of Hair

35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair



Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy waves, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair, "Danderine" is also toning up each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair appears after this delightful, refreshing dressing.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Says glass of Jad Salts help to overcome Rheumatism acid

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure and, above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kind.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

NORA LEE

A Story of Flaming Youth

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen. His dissolute habits soon made her miserable. The night he raised his hand to his two-year-old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Fairdale where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Nora, at seventeen, fell in love with Dane Herrick. Andrew says good-by to Nora Lee and gives her a packet of bonds. He is killed in an auto accident, and his widow demands the bonds of Nora. Nora meets Maxwell Reed, who makes love to her. Margaret dies and Nora is left alone. Andrew's widow accuses Nora of stealing the bonds. Nora hears a discussion of life as seen by the modern flapper.

CHILDHOOD GRACE

By Maria Jeritza

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

WATCH a group of children at play in the park, or for that matter ragged little [illegible] on city pavements. How graceful they are, how free from self-consciousness! Entirely absorbed in the game that has called forth every effort they are living freely and beautifully in the land of imagination.

We ourselves would be just as beautiful and graceful, just as healthful and free from self-consciousness if we had continued to play rather than repress the instinct to romp as unladylike upon reaching years of so-called dignity.

The more you enter into the play spirit today through athletics, dancing or just long carefree walks and [illegible] the open the more you will attain and retain the unconscious, graceful symetry of childhood.

The defect that gives a woman the most awkward look of all — the air of being settled for life into an inactive rut—is an abdomen that is disproportionately large.

Standing straight will in itself go far toward remedying this defect. Get the habit of sucking in the stomach, to quote the expression used at boys' military schools.

Attention to diet and daily baths help also to reduce superfluous fat of the entire body, including the stomach and abdomen.

Swimming, golf, rowing are all fine if practiced systematically. But of course this is not the time of year to recommend such warm-weather pastimes and sports.

So I am going to describe an exercise that you can work on in the privacy of your own room and which will have decided beneficial effects if you keep it up [illegible] for several months.

Kneel on both knees [illegible] your [illegible] back of you [illegible] and feet [illegible]

Bend back until your straight outstretched arms rest on the floor back of you, palms down. Your arms now serve as props for your body.

Hold your body so that it makes a straight line from your head to your knees. Holding this position [illegible] trunk relax or sag. Now straighten to first position.

You may find it advisable to start with only five repitions. Then gradually as your abdominal muscles grow stronger, you'll be able to practice it with ease ten or more times. I suggest that you work on this exercise every day for several months or until the swimming and [illegible] season starts. Then supplant it by daily exercise at these enjoyable sports. If you persist in your efforts you'll be delighted with your improved sense of physical fitness as well as your slenderness.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

By Ann Lisle

IT was Betty Winston's right and due to hear from me all the revelations which had been made at Dreamwold yesterday. I was anxious to discuss the destroying of Ruth Gregory's statue with Betty. But it hardly seemed as if that could be avoided.

The moment I came into the office Betty rose. Without waiting for a word from me she [illegible] her arm in mine and came along into my private office.

"Are you going to tell Betty B what made Virginia's [illegible] you out to Dreamwold so hastily yesterday?" she asked.

"Yes," I replied. "[illegible] about it [illegible] you have [illegible]"

For a moment silence fell between us, the silence of sympathy and understanding. Then Betty said briskly:

Betty's eyes searched mine for a moment, then she said quietly:

"But his memory is clear. You've got to be grateful for that happy ending. And the thing now is to go on with your work and be tranquil whatever comes. You've been fine once. You must have faith that right will prevail. I don't want to sound preachy. But maybe you need reminding."

I couldn't bring myself to speak of the strange events in Ruth Gregory's studio and I wondered if Betty knew and was deliberately reticent.

"Of course you know that some vandal smashed the statue of 'The Young Aviator' yesterday," she said tentatively.

"Yes, I know," I answered.

"I don't know," I confessed. "I was sure Miss Gregory would call on you in her hour of need. Even if you don't see her very often [illegible] of old friends [illegible]"

"You know it doesn't count much with me any more," said Betty firmly. "You know that, don't you, Anne?"

He went swimming in winter

Result—a cough. But REM fixed it

Meet Mr. Marland Hall of 189-A Reid Ave., Brooklyn. He's one of those "Polar Bears." Last winter, though, he brought a bad cough back to town after one of his midwinter swims.

Lucky for him he heard about REM.

"I recently had a bad cough," says Mr. Hall, "that I got from going swimming with my brother down in the ocean in midwinter. It was great fun and I felt like a million dollars afterward but I got a bad cough from it. It stayed with me about ten days and I coughed a great deal. I'd start to talk and then would begin coughing.

"After I'd tried some different things to get rid of it, the clerk at Morris' Pharmacy, Reid Ave. and Putnam, told me about REM, so I thought I'd give it a chance to see what it would do. I felt relief within a day. In two days the cough was gone."

So many who have tried REM speak of the quick relief it brings.

No Opiates in REM. And pleasant to take.

Ask your druggist for REM—the blue package with the round orange label. If it doesn't help you, you can have your money back. Fair enough!

ONCE-OVERS

THRIFT IS NOT SAVING AT THE EXPENSE OF COMFORT

You may be called a "tight-wad," and as such do not get much out of life except the satisfaction of accumulation and the feeling of success in saving at the expense of comfort and enjoyment which you and your family might have had.

You may call yourself a good manager, a boss in your own home, and pat yourself on the back that you have taught your family to be thrifty or perhaps penurious.

If your family knows that you can afford to have some pleasures which you deny them, they are looking forward to the time when they go out from your roof and experience some of those joys which they have always wanted and which others have had.

There is bound to creep into the heart of a child a bit of harshness now and then toward a parent whom the child knows is denying pleasure because of a grasping nature to hold and to hoard.

If you have more than you need to meet your desires, share the surplus with your children. Would you not rather enjoy it with them than have them take it after you are gone and perhaps use it unwisely to get the pleasures you denied them?

DAILY SHORT STORY

PLAYING WITH G

By Eudora Ramsay Richards

ELEANOR had been married seven years to Roger Huntington without ever having forgotten her first love.

Her brain approved Roger; her eye admired him, but her heart kept wandering back to a June night when she and Harvey Stewart had stood together beneath a commencement moon and pledged a troth to which Eleanor's heart was still true. Now after ten years she was to see Harvey, his wife and his two children.

Eleanor trembled with glad expectation and genuine fear of the outcome of that meeting. Suppose the ache in her heart should be made unbearable. Suppose she should be unable to conceal from Roger how much she had loved Harvey—how much she still loved him!

Tried To Laugh

"You're mooning," Roger said with a smile. "I believe the thought of seeing that school girl sweetheart of yours again has carried you across all the intervening years."

Eleanor tried to laugh and did not reply. She looked through the windows of the sun parlor to the misty blue line of mountains that bordered the little university town where she and Roger had come for a mid-Winter vacation.

They had chosen this particular town because it boasted of a golf course and a hotel far famed for many good things. She had not known that Harvey was teaching at the university—not, of course, that that knowledge would have kept Eleanor away, for she wanted to see Harvey again.

Harvey had seen in the local paper that Roger and [illegible] were guests at the hotel. He had brought his wife to call and not finding Eleanor in, had telephoned an invitation to dinner which Eleanor had at once accepted. Now, after all the years, she was to see again that man the man a trick of fate had kept her from marrying.

Something of a Poet

"That fellow was something of a poet, wasn't he?" Roger Huntington asked, for the first time in his life persisting in an effort to unearth a bit of his wife's first romance.

"Oh, yes," Eleanor replied with studied carelessness.

"Oh, Roger, for heaven's sake! I haven't a taste for ancient history. Why don't you play golf?"

"All right. [illegible]"

"I have a heartache. Let me rest."

So Eleanor was left alone in the pleasant sun parlor with her strangely mingled thoughts and her bitter-sweet memories. Her husband was a business man devoid of the sort of sentiment she craved. Harvey was a poet who loved by inspiration. Of course, Roger loved her, but love like his was the veriest prose. He treated her much as a fond father would treat a daughter of which he was inordinately proud, with a fine dash of brotherly camaraderie thrown in and an occasional burst of crude sentiment.

Roger urged her to write, encouraged her when editors were unappreciative, and furnished sufficient means to enable her mind always to be at rest regarding finances, but Harvey had told her that her eyes were like stars at midnight, that the price of his soul was her black hair, that "hell could not contain so deep a part but that [illegible] bottom she'd still find his heart."

She and Harvey had left the president's reception together on that night of nights. Both were being graduated, and both seemed to know that the end had come. They were cousins. Two families objected. Harvey had no money. Eleanor was going abroad. With her bare arms pressed against the cold marble of the library balustrade, and her head upon them, Eleanor had wept while Harvey kissed her hair, the back of her neck, and told her that he would always love her.

Union of Spirit

"We may not meet again, Eleanor. You and I may both marry others, but between us there has been a union of the spirit that must transcend."

After that, Eleanor heard there were other girls, but she continued to believe in the union of the spirit even after she knew that Harvey was married. Strangely she made herself think that his marriage had been an effort to forget the heartache which separation from her had caused.

Certainly, she had married Roger because just having someone to love her made it easier, but Roger was wonderful—really! She was well known now, writing for the big magazines. What would she have been if she had married Harvey? Suddenly she knew that two girls near her were talking, and she heard the name of Professor Harvey Stewart.

"His classes are the most popular in the extension. This hotel is full of old ladies here who just want to sit beneath his eloquence. What is it they see in him?" one was saying to the other.

"Oh, I think he's a dream. Such liquid brown eyes, such beautiful thoughts!" the other replied with a heavenward gaze.

Eleanor sighed. So it was as it had always been. Women loved Harvey—women old and young. What it must mean to be married to a man like that, and she might have been!

Tried To Look Young

That night Eleanor tried to look less than her thirty years, and indeed her task was not a difficult one. She remembered that Harvey was just her age. She wondered if the years had dealt kindly with him. They must have. Nothing had ever dealt unkindly with Harvey.

She and Roger walked to the cottage at the far edge of the campus—the one that had been pointed out to her as Professor Stewart's. It, too, looked toward the mountains. What a shrine indeed for the heart of a poet! In her eagerness, Eleanor had left the hotel a bit too early, and in addition, she had overestimated the time it would take her to walk through the crisp mountain night. When they had almost reached the cottage, Roger looked at his watch.

"We're much too early," he said. "We may disconcert the hostess. College professors' wives don't have a great many servants, you know."

"Then let's stay outside a few stars and that tiny moon is so lovely."

A voice came from the cottage porch—a voice familiar, and yet it was unfamiliar, ill-natured, raucous.

"I can't find your damn wood. Where did you put it? What do you think I am—your lackey?"

Young But Troubled

A woman came to the door, and by the light that outlined her, Eleanor could see that her face was young but troubled. "Please, Harve, don't be cross. I have so much to do—the dinner to finish and the children to get to bed. The baby's cold is worse."

"That's your job. Mine's teaching, not bringing in wood."

"Yours seems also to be gathering satellites. I meant to tell you that the old maid with the suppressed desires wrote you another letter today."

"There you go again with your jealousy."

The girl smiled wearily. "I'm not jealous. Goodness knows I don't have time to be. I'll find the wood."

"I wish I didn't

Six Children in Need

Helping Hand Editor:

I am sending this in behalf of a needy family. There are six children. The four youngest are almost naked, no shoes or clothes to go to school; all boys, ages 14, 11, 8 and 6. Baby is 2. The oldest is working three days a week: that is all the income they have. The father is under the doctor's care at home, having been in the hospital for a while. ANNIE P.

Clothes Offered

Helping Hand Editor:

If you will let me have the address of a mother needing coat for girl 10 or 11, pair oxfords, size 6, and few other things for a baby 1 or 1½ years, will be glad to send them to her. MRS. L.

Many thanks. Mrs. B. will be glad to get your offerings.

Cannot Supply Needs

Helping Hand Editor:

Can some kind reader help me? I have six children, four girls, 15, 10, 8 and 4 years old, and two boys, 12 and 5. The girls take shoes sizes 4½, 12, 11 and 7, and the boys 3 and 9. My husband has been in failing health for the past two years and is not able to work. I work, but cannot supply our needs. We are greatly in need of bed clothes, and the children need shoes, rubbers and stockings. I will greatly appreciate any help.

MRS. GEORGE E.

Offers Baby Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a few baby clothes that I would like to give to some needy mother. Will you please give me the name and address of one?

MRS. L. J. M.

Thank you. Mrs. E. is very much in need of baby clothes and will appreciate your kindness in supplying her with some.

All Goes for Food and Rent

Helping Hand Editor:

Would you kindly help a family of five children. They are in need of clothing of every kind and shoes. Boys' ages are 12, 7 and 6 years, and two girls, 11 and 10. My husband wears size 40 and 8 shoe, and I wear size 40 and a 5 shoe. I can make over anything. My husband only works two and three days a week and it takes all his wages for rent and food. We are also in need of fuel.

MRS. A. G.

Grateful for Box

Helping Hand Editor:

I wish to thank Miss F. A., East Walpole, Mass., for the box she sent me. I am very thankful to her. If anyone has a small parlor stove they no longer use, I will gladly pay express charges on it if they will send to me. We are so cold these freezing days. If anyone has good rugs to braid, may I have them for my mother, who braids rugs.

SAD AND LONELY.

Providence.

No Means of Support

Helping Hand Editor:

Could any of the kind readers help me as I am a young woman who has given up making a living and all worldly pleasures and confined herself to a little apartment to take care of an invalid who is totally helpless. Now I have no means of support and I did this to keep her from going to Tewksbury, as she begged me not to let her go. We would be grateful for any help in the way of food and fuel. MRS. N. B.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

A LAW has just been passed in London that people who fly to picnics mustn't drop beer bottles from airplanes.

IN this country it's even against the law to let a beer bottle drop out of your pocket if it's got beer in it.

ENGLISH aviators who drink while they're flying must finish the beer and then come down and set the bottle on the ground.

SEVERAL English breweries are doing away with this nuisance by putting their beer in rubber bottles.

ALL the aviator has to do is to drop the bottle in London and it'll bounce into France.

AVIATORS are getting so careless this year that British pedestrians now wear sport caps made out of concrete.

THEY carry rubbish cans instead of umbrellas.

ONE old man who used to walk around without a hat picked three milk bottles, two propellers and an engine out of his hair the other afternoon.

HE now uses lard on his wig so that no matter what hits him on the head, it slides off.

AN aviator who hasn't room in his ship for a lot of empty bottles should tie a string to each one and let it down gently.

IN this country we can still go out doors, raise our heads for a breath of fresh air and not have to worry about inhaling three or four vacant sardine cans.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

We highly esteem and stand much upon our birth, though we derive nothing from our ancestors but our bodies, and it is useful to improve this advantage, to imitate their good examples.

True happiness
But in the worth and choice.

Encourage such innocent amusements as may disembitter the minds of men and make them mutually rejoice in the same agreeable satisfactions.

Arrogance, in whatever sphere of the intellectual or moral development it may obtain, will, nay must, meet its appropriate punishment.

Employ your time in improving yourselves by other men's documents, so shall you come easily by what others have labored for.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

WHEN Earth lies shrouded under snow, when no birds sing and no flowers blow, then still and white across the night the Old Year and his pale ranks go. They pass—a silent, ghostly throng, down moon-touched ways they glide along; the joys he brought, the good he wrought, the Old Year's hosts of right and wrong. And, shining in their stead appears, an army that can banish fears; shapes rainbow-hued and hope-imbued lead in the best of all New Year's. New joy, new faith, new work are here, when happy bells ring in their cheer; new will to gain a higher plane, new trust and courage for the year! Oh, New Year, as your dawning light illuminates a world in white, you bring to men new dreams again, new strength, new vision, new delight!

SECRETS OF HEALTH

Former President of the American Medical Association.

DIPTHERIA is chiefly a Winter disease.

There were 209,000 cases in the United States in 1921.

Dr. Hobart Amory Hare, in his excellent book on Modern Treatment, calls attention to the fact that, in the records of nearly twenty one thousand cases of diphtheria out of each one hundred deaths [illegible] occurred on the first day, [illegible] the second, sixteen on the [illegible] twenty-two on the fourth [illegible] twenty-seven on the fifth.

Of course, as you know [illegible] deaths from this swift [illegible] scourge have been largely [illegible] in number by the use of a[illegible] when used promptly.

This was one of the great[illegible] vances of science twenty years [illegible]

But science has gone a long [illegible] further by revealing the law of immunity as applied to the prevention of diphtheria.

A person is immune to a certain germ disease when and because that person has in his or her system substances that are effectively antagonistic to the infection of that particular disease.

The trouble is that nobody knows when he or she is the fortunate possessor of these protective substances until their absence is demonstrated by the absence of immunity—or, in other words, until the individual becomes the victim of the disease.

It is for this reason that means are taken to protect the individual, first, by actual test of the immunity and, next, by establishing the immunity where it is absent.

The test to determine whether or not a child can catch diphtheria is called the Schick test.

It is very simple, done in a minute, and consists of placing a drop or two of a harmless liquid in the outer layer of the skin of one arm. The other arm may be treated the same way for the purpose of testing the first test, which is what the doctors call control. It is all done in a minute, is painless and harmless.

In the next four day a small red spot may appear at the point of the test. If it does, it shows that there is no natural antitoxin in the blood and proves that the child is susceptible to diphtheria.

When the child is thus found susceptible, an equally safe and simple protective treatment is given. It consists of three injections of antitoxin given a week apart.

Immunity is best assured if another Schick test is given after the lapse of about six months.

It is the duty of all parents to give their children the benefit of the doubt by means of these safe and simple measures.

BRINGING UP CHILDREN

By Carolyn Lisberge
Lecturer and Writer on the Training and Education of Children

"I AM greatly disappointed in my son," a reserved woman of sixty told me in a burst of confidence. "I wanted him to be what you call a big man. I worked hard for that end. I made sacrifices of every kind to have him stand out prominently in the world. He is twenty-nine today. Earning a fairly good income. People trust him. But none could call him a big man despite the opportunities he has had. I cannot understand it."

It so happened that having been her neighbor for years I had observed her treatment of her son.

She believes that all children, no matter what their characters, should be treated alike. "Little children should be seen and not heard." "Spare the rod and spoil the child," were among her maxims.

She is a strong woman of executive intent, with a tendency to override other people if she thinks it best for them. A conservative father had implanted his views in her mind. His advice to look before she leaped; never to spend money without due thought, was a help to her. Her mother, always reminding her to talk and walk slowly, to keep away from dirt; go about only with an elder companion—acted as a needed check to a natural impetuousness. As long as she was the kind who would rush wildly ahead anyway it helped rather than hindered her to be held back at times by thoughtful injunctions.

But her son was naturally cautious, so instead of needing to be checked, he required encouragement to rush ahead. He was slow in making decisions and needed urging to trust his own judgment and to work with "push." Once when his mother was ill and had to leave her business to his care, he proved he had qualities for leadership. But his mother's constant watch and her endeavor to dictate his actions from boyhood to maturity had made him distrust his own powers and discouraged his initiative.

Without bothering to realize that he was an entirely different kind of human being from the members of her own family, she applied the same rules in bringing him up as her parents had used with her and a brother.

Upon the rock of this determination she wrecked his chances of ever being the big man she had dreamed he would be.

Upon the same rock many a misjudged parent has wrecked many a youngster's career.

FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

What is the purpose of business, of industry?

Is it not to add to the comfort and happiness of the human family?

If this be so—and it is so—then anything which injures the comfort and the happiness of human beings should be abolished if humanly possible.

• • •

Approached from this highest of all standpoints, the well-being of the human race, is child labor to be approved or condemned?

• • •

But have we not already far too much interference by the Federal government, with State governments and other State bodies?

We have.

• • •

Have not the American public come to lean too heavily upon the Federal government?

They have.

• • •

Is there not danger that the present trend towards centralization of authority in Washington will sap the sturdy self-reliance of States, of local communities and of individuals?

There is.

• • •

Is it not true that the country is already invested with too many Federal commissions and regulatory bodies of all kinds, each bringing into being a horde of tax-eaters who have to be carried on your shoulders and mine?

It is.

• • •

Is not this mania for running to Washington to have our lawmakers attempt to reform human nature by legislature decree wholly un-American?

It is.

• • •

These and other important facts—and they are important facts—can be presented legitimately against the movement to tag on one more amendment, number 20, to the constitution of the United States, particularly as the powers which would be conferred upon Washington by the proposed child labor amendment are, at least theoretical, most drastic. The vital section reads:

"That Congress shall have power to limit and to prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age, and power is also reserved to the several States to limit and to prohibit such labor in any way which does not lessen any limitation of such labor the extent of any prohibition thereof by Congress."

• • •

Those who oppose the proposed constitutional amendment, and they include many thoughtful citizens who would not dream of profiting in any way whatsoever from any form of child labor, contend that "the individual States should be left to regulate child labor and to prevent abuses." Heretofore the States have been left free to do this. But it is because certain States have failed to exercise this vitally important function satisfactorily that such widespread insistence has arisen that the Federal government be clothed with power to step in whenever necessary to stop abuses.

• • •

Frankly, the amendment as drafted, strikes me as being extremely drastic. I started to work 54 hours a week when I was 14 and I cannot say that I regarded myself as an object of pity. Nor would I like to think that the federal authorities or anybody else would absolutely prohibit me from putting any of my sons to work before reaching 18 should domestic conditions make such action desirable or necessary.

I have complete evidence, however, that the federal authorities would not act without rhyme or reason. Moreover, I am perfectly willing to have my freedom in the matter of child labor regulated by law because I am profoundly convinced that something of far more moment than my unbridled freedom is at stake, namely, the health, the wellbeing, the future of many thousands of children wholly at the mercy of shortsighted parents.

• • •

My attitude towards child labor is exactly the same as it always was towards the 12-hour-day and the 7-day-week in the steel industry. When the foremost leaders in that industry vowed that the industry would be ruined were such working conditions interfered with, I contended that the welfare of human beings must be placed ahead of the welfare of any industry, that industry existed for human beings, not human beings for industry.

That same reasoning I apply to cotton manufacturing, the canning industry, and any and every other industry that proclaims that the adoption of the child labor amendment to the Constitution would cause wreck and ruin. The steel industry finally mended its ways, and, lo, the change caused scarcely a ripple and the biggest steel corporation of them all started and still is paying extra dividends regularly.

• • •

I believe profoundly that those industries that are objecting most violently to the child labor amendment would have a similar experience.

HARVARD VIEW ADHERES TO OPTIMISM

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor

Harvard Economic Service view continues on the optimistic side. The Service says:

"The money market, despite increases in money rates, is favorable to continued expansion of business. The output of manufacture and the volume of freight traffic have increased substantially since mid-Summer, and building continues active.

"Agricultural prices have risen almost to the level of other prices, and the general European situation is better than at any other time since the war. The prospect in the United States, therefore, is for general business improvement during the first half of 1925."

• • •

Recently we protested the too numerous changes in ticker symbols by the New York Stock Exchange as causing confusion and coming at a time when business was brisk, rendering this confusion even worse than it would ordinarily be.

A New York dispatch says: "Partners of commission houses affiliated with New York Stock Exchange will hold informal meeting with committee on quotations of exchange today to discuss changes recently made and contemplated in ticker symbols. Changes have caused confusion, coming when market was experiencing greatest activity in history."

• • •

Again there comes evidence that the South of today is competing strongly with the West for honors in expansion and growth. Industry continues to drift toward the source of raw material with the resulting demand for more power. The latest offering comes from the Old Colony Trust Company in the form of an issue of 10,000 shares 7 p. c. cumulative preferred stock of Memphis Power & Light Company.

This company is without competition and serves the city of Memphis, Tenn., with lines extending out into the surrounding territory. The population is estimated at more than 200,000.

It is hardly necessary to mention earnings with the situation as it is today in the power industry field. They are taken as a matter of course and the Memphis Power & Light Company is no exception, clearing $23.33 per share on the preferred stock outstanding, including this issue, or three and one-third times dividend requirements.

Each share is secured by an equity of over $190, according to the latest property valuation.

These 10,000 shares of 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock are to be issued at $99 a share with accrued dividend to yield over 7 per cent.

• • •

ORDERS AC.. VE FOR HARDWARE

"The hardware trade is busy with inventory. Salesmen are off their territories attending company sales conventions. These two facts jointly have restricted general hardware buying. Early reports indicate that inventory shows the average stock to be very low," says Hardware Age today.

"January should be a good hardware selling month. The fill-in demand in general shelf goods should be very brisk for at least three or four weeks, as the trade will find it desirable to complete their stocks promptly in view of the fact that it is a rising market with possibilities for higher prices in the Spring.

"Future delivery orders on various Spring goods are again active and should continue to me in demand through January. Early indications suggest a good general employment situation, and if the agricultural prophets are maintained the hardware business in 1925 should be far better than 1924.

RAILS TALKED OF FOR DIVIDEND INCREASES

Raising of the Atchison common dividend from $6 to $7 annually has engendered hopes of similar action by directors of other railroads. Roads most frequently mentioned in this connection are Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pere Marquette, Louisville & Nashville and Missouri-Kansas-Texas preferred.

Several other roads are in a position to inaugurate dividends on either the common or preferred stock, the list including Erie first and second preferred, Wabash preferred A, Texas & Pacific, Colorado & Southern, Pittsburgh & West Virginia and Missouri Pacific preferred.

WILSON REORGANIZATION PLAN DUE IN FEW WEEKS

Plan for reorganization of Wilson & Co. will be presented to stockholders within a few weeks, it is stated. According to report, first mortgage bonds would be untouched under proposed plan, and holders of debentures would receive new securities in exchange. It is intimated there may be an assessment on stock.

RISING PRICES MARK TRADING IN NEW YORK

Cumulative effects of Tuesday's favorable dividend announcements were reflected in rising prices throughout the entire New York stock list today.

Dividend-paying rails and industrials made rapid progress under the leadership of pivotal issues such as Baldwin, which extended its gain to 3 points.

Trading in sugar stocks was stimulated by declaration of the regular Punta Alegre dividend and an extra by one of the smaller companies. Punta Alegre rose 2¼ to a level 7 points above Monday's low.

Public utilities were led into higher ground by Federal Light & Traction and Brooklyn Edison, which jumped 5 points or more. Commercial solvents also scored a 5-poin gain.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has advanced the price of its stock to employes from $118 to $121 per share, effective January 1. This change affects the subscription price of stock under the company's employes' stock plan, dated May 1, 1921, as amended.

From time to time, Lawson boomed Trinity anew, sometimes alone and sometimes in combination with other stocks. And while he made money assuredly out of the California hole in the ground, he never made any from the smelter.

Up to half a dozen years ago, Trinity was still a live issue. Today, however, while it is still quoted, it is recumbent on bed rock, in company with Bay State Gas and other Lawson stocks.

But Trinity in the middle hundreds of this century, was not the only medium through which Thomas W. Lawson's blood was kept racing through his veins.

He was wrestling with the problem of every wealthy father—keeping in check two high-spirited and adventuresome sons filled with the youthful urge of "college days."

Rather, he had finished with one son's rapid career in college, while he was just entering on four years of adventure with the other.

Arnold, who has received a deal of publicity in the past few years in connection with his marital affairs, is the older of the financier's two sons. He is now forty-five years old and of the six Lawson children was the second born.

Douglas is ten years the junior of his sportsman brother, but although his "space" in the news columns has not been so extensive, his career has been the more exciting by virtue of a thrilling college day chase of a youthful sweetheart that went into territory as far North as Alaska.

Harvard was Douglas' only alma mater, while the halls of Harvard and Oxford were graced by the energetic Arnold before he had assimilated all his higher education.

Arnold a Horseman

After he ceased pursuing his studies, he took up the ribbons over the backs of his father's blooded trotters and aired the Dreamwold hopes on various trotting tracks throughout the country.

Whatever Arnold may not have been in the way of a close student or a staid and successful business man, he was a first-class driver and many ribbons and cups gracing the now lamented Dreamwold collection were brought home as a result of the elder son's prowess in the sulky.

As far back as August, 1905, the newspapers detailed:

"Driving Milady of Dreamwold, the pride of the Lawson farm at Egypt, Arnold Lawson won the 2:20 trot at Washington Park (Chicago) today in straight heats.

Along the twinkling strand whose lights are brightest and whose shadows are blacker than the bed of the Styx, Arnold came to be known in due time, as are known eventually most of the sons of the wealthy and doting.

But he kept his skirts clean and except for a casual marriage to an actress—meaning anything from back row chorus girl to scintillating star in reference to a young man of wealth—he came through this phase unmarred.

Save Part of Wreck

At this stage of his manhood, Arnold, had he been a sagacious, far-sighted individual instead of a fun-loving scion of great wealth, could have "salted" out of his doting father's largesse enough money to carry him through several business failures and still have enough remaining to see him through a comfortable old age.

But it was coming too easy. One day, just as the war clouds were breaking up overseas, Tom Lawson sat down with his secretary and culled back through his memory, endeavoring to recall just how many times he had set Arnold up in business, and how much the total outlay was along this line.

It was a difficult task in remembering, for Lawson never kept books, carrying instead in his head the various accounts of his far-flung gambles.

He would not even allow his successive secretaries to jot down memoranda that possibly could be construed as an account of the Lawson business.

When the secretary and his "boss" finished summing up all the starts Arnold had been given, they totalled them, and the total sum expended in trying to make a regular business man out of him was over $1,000,000.

Later, when Arnold's second wife, Lucy, was suing Tom Lawson for breach of contract, alleging his failure to contribute to her support during Arnold's absence in the army, the financier revealed this figure publicly in court as an illustration of what he had done for his son and his family.

Arnold was divorced from Lucy Mitchell Lawson a few years ago, but has the custody of his four children. He has since married and is now engaged in purchasing the "Nest" at Dreamwold.

Douglas settled down after his exciting career and married a Southern belle from Little Rock, Ark. They are running a tea room in Scituate, in a cottage formerly part of the Dreamwold property. So the sons have dragged part of Dreamwold out of the wreck.

MACHINE TOOL OUTLOOK GOOD

New York, Jan. 7.—Promising outlook for active buying in 1925 by motor car makers and the railroads; the conclusion of the placing of a million dollars worth of orders by automobile manufacturers and lack of any let-up in the upward trend of prices for machine shop materials and supplies made the first week of the year an interesting one for the machinery and machine tool industry, American Machinist reports. The materials prices reflected recent advancing tendencies in steel and the non-ferrous metals.

Attention of machinery and machine tool men centered largely on the automobile manufactories, which start on an ambitious production schedule this month.

The outlook for machine shop labor for 1925 is one of increased earnings through more hours per week. Actual increase in the hourly rate seems unlikely. The 1924 labor rates in most trades probably will hold for 1925.

MONTGOMERY WARD HAS BRIGHTENED OUTLOOK

Outlook for Montgomery Ward & Co., Inc., common becomes appreciably brighter as result of declaration of $6.25 a share on Class A stock on account of arrears. With this payment to stock of record January 15, there will remain only $12.25 a share of the original $21 still to be disposed of. As sales and profits are steadily increasing and 1924 was a record year in earnings, it is believed common stockholders may expect to be given favorable consideration before close of 1925.

URPRISE TURN IN SCOTT SUIT FOR DIVORCE

awyer for Congressman's Wife Given Time to Get Depositions

Alpena, Mich., Jan. 7 (Universal). The Scott divorce suit today stands journed to March 10.

The motion of adjournment was ade by Ward Peck, counsel for . Edna Scott, wife of Representa- Frank D. Scott of Michigan, to mit the taking of depositions from ashington "High-Flyers" and ere mentioned in the testimony of e contested suit. The announce- nt came as a thunderbolt and the courtroom by surprise.

The motion was allowed by Judge erick over the strenuous objec- of I. S. Canfield, Congressman tt's counsel.

EPOSITION SOUGHT.

Among those who will thus be ught even more prominently into e records of the case, it was de- red, will be Captain Wilbur Sum- r of Washington, who was identi- d by Congressman Scott as the mbo" of his wife's diaries and incipal figure in the "burnt mono episode" which has figured the testimony at intervals.

The army's officer's deposition, it s learned, will be the first to be ed by Mrs. Scott's counsel to ify the episode—whether or not Scott's kimono was burned the captain held a cigarette in hand at the time he sought to brace her, as the Congressman and charged, or whether the of the garment was scorched en Mrs. Scott inadvertently sat on the lighted cigarette, as the se claims.

ERS TO BE QUIZZED.

Other depositions will be sought clear up charges and innuendoes olving a pajama party at Orion in which Mrs. Scott is alleged have participated during the nce of her husband, of drinking e and smuggled liquor from ama, and of gambling for high s by Congressmen in Washing-

Mr. Fred K. Holden of New York, o operated on Mrs. Scott in evue Hospital after her husband in 1923.

Mrs. Clifford Ireland, wife of Con- ssman Ireland of Illinois.

William E. Leahy, a Washington orney.

Mrs. Peggy Hamilton and Mrs. ey Burwell, the latter the wife Major Burwell, and both of Wash- ton.

S. SCOTT ON STAND.

Mrs. Scott again occupied the wit- stand under cross-examination the hands of Attorney Canfield the plaintiff.

The questions were to establish prior to her trip to Europe, Scott had been identified so- ly with the more conservative ent in Washington, knowing a few army officials to whom had been introduced by her hus-

On her return, however, Mrs. Scott nged her mode of living and nd new friends, the attorney at- pted to show. The new-found nds, it was intimated, were ng the so-called "Fast Army Set" her old conservative friends were e off.

SURPRISE TURN IN SCOTT SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Lawyer for Congressman's Wife Given Time to Get Depositions

Alpena, Mich., Jan. 7 (Universal).—The Scott divorce suit today stands adjourned to March 10.

The motion of adjournment was made by Ward Peck, counsel for Mrs. Edna Scott, wife of Representative Frank D. Scott of Michigan, to permit the taking of depositions from "Washington High-Flyers" and others mentioned in the testimony of the contested suit. The announcement came as a thunderbolt and took the courtroom by surprise.

The motion was allowed by Judge Emerick over the strenuous objections of L. S. Canfield, Congressman Scott's counsel.

DEPOSITION SOUGHT.

Among those who will thus be brought even more prominently into the records of the case, it was declared, will be Captain Wilbur Sumner of Washington, who was identified by Congressman Scott as the "Rambo" of his wife's diaries and principal figure in the "burnt kimono episode" which has figured in the testimony at intervals.

The army's officer's deposition, it was learned, will be the first to be sought by Mrs. Scott's counsel to clarify the episode—whether or not Mrs. Scott's kimono was burned while the captain held a cigarette in his hand at the time he sought to embrace her, as the Congressman husband charged, or whether the fabric of the garment was scorched when Mrs. Scott inadvertently sat down on the lighted cigarette, as the defense claims.

OTHERS TO BE QUIZZED.

Other depositions will be sought to clear up charges and innuendoes involving a pajama party at Orion Lake in which Mrs. Scott is alleged to have participated during the absence of her husband, of drinking bouts and smuggled liquor from Panama, and of gambling for high stakes by Congressmen in Washington.

Dr. Fred K. Holden of New York, who operated on Mrs. Scott in Bellevue Hospital after her husband left in 1921.

Mrs. Clifford Ireland, wife of Congressman Ireland of Illinois.

William E. Leahy, a Washington attorney.

Mrs. Peggy Hamilton and Mrs. Harvey Burwell, the latter the wife of Major Burwell, and both of Washington.

MRS. SCOTT ON STAND.

Mrs. Scott again occupied the witness stand under cross-examination at the hands of Attorney Canfield for the plaintiff.

The questions were to establish that prior to her trip to Europe, Mrs. Scott had been identified socially with the more conservative element in Washington, knowing only a few army officials to whom she had been introduced by her husband.

On her return, however, Mrs. Scott changed her mode of living and found new friends, the attorney attempted to show. The new-found friends, it was intimated, were among the so-called "Fast Army Set" and her old conservative friends were cast off.

LIGHT CURE

Mr. Lorenzo D. Penella, 1570 Cambridge St., Cambridge, Mass., says: "I had been troubled for 14 years with a serious disease of the abdomen. It caused me a great deal of pain and threatened to incapacitate me from any physical effort. I had been treated by a local doctor whose treatment failed to relieve my condition. I read of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians in the daily papers and had them treat me. I feel so much pleased with the result of their treatment that I readily consent to the publication of this testimonial in the hopes of inducing others who suffer from chronic disease to take the Osmo-Chemic treatment and be cured of their disease."

The wonderful power of the X-RAY and MERCURY-QUARTZ LIGHT TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful results in diseases of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASE, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASE.

No matter what your disease may be, remember that the Osmo-Chemic doctor gives

Attleboro is one of the New England cities into which one may bring a New Idea with every assurance that it will be respectfully considered. The great jewelry industry flourishes on new ideas.

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 7, 1925
BOSTON AMERICAN
LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

The old-fashioned "board of busied itself almost exclu the interests of the retail The modern Chamber of C is concerned about schools, h civic centres and housing.

How 450 Minute Men of Attleboro Promo the General Welfare of the Community

THE OLD-FASHIONED "board of trade," such as flourished more or less in most of the smaller cities of New England twenty years ago and more, was quite frequently, if not generally, an organization of retail merchants banded together for purposes of mutual aid and protection.

From the very nature of its composition, an association of this type was a self-centred body. Its members had identical interests. When they met they discussed credits, closing hours, half holidays, labor, program advertising, dollar days, merchants' weeks and similar topics. Their interest in the affairs of the community at large, except in so far as those affairs directly touched their own, was likely to be somewhat remote.

The Chamber of Commerce of today, on the contrary, is neither more nor less than a great Community Club, very much concerned about everything of community interest. To prove this you have only to study a list of Chamber of Commerce committees in any city. Schools, health, transportation, athletics, these committees touch every feature and every aspect of city life.

In the present-day Chamber, again, the retail merchant rubs elbows with every other man of importance in the community. The physician, the dentist, the attorney, the banker, the manufacturer, the school teacher, the editor, everybody joins the Chamber of Commerce and, if he is worth his salt, contributes much more than money to make it a success.

A striking illustration of the benefits that come to a community through this representation of a diversity of interests in its Chamber of Commerce is the "own your home" campaign which has been inaugurated by the vigorous organization at Attleboro.

Although Attleboro is a city of not more than 25,000 inhabitants, its Chamber of Commerce is an organization of 450 members. No city in the United States four times the size of Attleboro has a livelier chamber. Always up with the procession, it is frequently out in front. It appears to be a veritable brooder for good ideas which, first tried out here and found to be worth while, are adopted by similar organizations throughout the country.

One of the latest developments to be taken up by the board of directors of the Attleboro chamber was the erection of a manufacturers' building, the plan being to acquire a site, erect a structure which would be the last word in modernity, and THEN go after new industries.

No more need be said at present about the manufacturers' building than that it is under way, or, as the saying is, in the works. Before anything was done about it, however, the chamber had thrown itself whole-heartedly into the "own your home" movement.

The suggestion came, not from a merchant or a manufacturer, but from an insurance man, Horace Richardson.

"I think it is quite all right to put up a manufacturers' building, and so make it easier to bring new industries to town," Mr. Richardson told his fellow-directors, "and if you want to go ahead with the proposition I am with it heart and soul, of course.

"But I wonder if we realize that there has been practically no construction of housing in Attleboro in the past fifteen years.

"The point I wish to make is that before we invite another new industry to come in we should be certain that there is housing here for the number of people it must employ. Already there are hundreds of persons employed in the shops of Attleboro who reside in communities round about us. This, I submit, is not a good thing for any of us. It isn't a good thing for Attleboro."

Director Richardson then set forth in detail the plan which, in substance, is now in operation. He made no claim that it was his own devising, but, on the contrary, described it as having originated with the Chamber of Commerce at Gardner.

The result of this and subsequent conferences on the subject was that President Aldro A. French of the Attleboro chamber conducted an investigation which revealed, among other things, that at the very bottom of Attleboro's housing problem was the question of finances.

Under the Massachusetts law a savings bank can lend to an individual only 60 per cent. of the appraised valuation of a house and the land upon which it is built.

For the remaining 40 per cent. the prospective builder was compelled to resort to second mortgage brokers.

The rates of interest on these subsidiary loans were prohibitive, and the condition frequently worked hardship on the borrowers.

Having ascertained these facts, the Chamber of Commerce was quick to see that the situation called for correction.

President French and Director Richardson visited Gardner and made a thorough study of the Gardner plan on its home soil. They returned filled with enthusiasm, the chamber heard them at great length, and the "Attleboro plan" already has made such headway that there are five houses under construction today—one of them the "demonstration" house pictured on this page—and some time this week the directors of the Attleboro Home Building Association, "as proposed and organized by the Attleboro Chamber of Commerce," will act upon applications for four more. Before the coming Spring is far advanced, Attleboro expects a home-building movement of "boom" proportions.

The Attleboro Home Building Association was organized to receive subscriptions of funds which could be loaned to the builders of homes in Attleboro on second mortgages.

The rates of interest are the current rates charged by the banks, and no premiums, bonuses or exorbitant charges are made.

The second mortgage, in other words, is as easy for the borrower to handle as the first. The home-builder is relieved from the clutches of the money-lender.

The intending builder is asked to furnish only 15 per cent. of the combined valuation of his lot and the proposed dwelling. If he lacks the available cash, his equity in the land or other security is accepted. The only other requirements are that he have a job and a reputation for honesty and responsibility.

A fund of $100,000 already is available for second mortgage loans and a committee has been organized to explain the workings of the plan to employes of the great industrial establishments of Jewelry Town and urge them to take advantage of it.

The live wires of the Attleboro Chamber of Commerce were able to go ahead with a worthwhile community proposition like this because, first of all, they HAVE FAITH IN THEIR CITY.

Only 32 miles south of Boston and only 12 miles out of Providence, on the main line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, Attleboro is in a position to COMMAND success. The thriving city of Worcester is but 40 miles away; Springfield, only 60 miles farther.

In the popular conception of Attle place and significance in the industrial life England, there are two major errors. On Attlebore makes "nothing but" jewelry. Th is that all Attleboro jewelry is cheap or portant.

No one will deny the overshadowing tance of jewelry among Attleboro manufa but, nevertheless, the fact is that jewelry a for no more than 60 per cent. of the value of boro's total annual output.

The largest dyeing and bleaching es ment in the world is in Attleboro, and amo other things made here are wrenches, steel products, cotton yarns, steel signs, rei paper, toys, phonographs, fire extinguish the humble but indispensable shoe-lace.

Attleboro makes "everything under t in the way of jewelry." Cheap? Some of i sure. Stuff for the "5-and-10s" by the c But with it some of the finest jewelry ma where in the U. S. A. One of the largest A houses, for example, specializes in sterling and makes almond sets, bonbon dishes, mu gravy boats, jiggers, loving cups, porringers ware, souvenir spoons, tea balls, marmalade desk sets and whiskey services, the last probably for export.

And how IS business?

The year 1924 was not an exceptional one in the jewelry industry, principally be two factors. The styles in women's clothing not particularly adapted to the display of j for one thing, and, for another, automobile radio and the theatre cut in. This, accord men in the trade. Business was "good and spots."

The new year, everybody says, is going much better. Confidence in the administra Washington has brought confidence to the ness man to expand his efforts. A like feel confidence on the part of the people will re liberal expenditures.

The house in the picture is one of five in process of construction under Attleboro Chamber of Commerce auspices. This one, a "demonstration" house, will be thrown open for public inspection in March. All are to be sold on an easy payment plan devised by the Chamber and explained at length on this page. In this way the Attleboro organization, organized "to promote the general welfare of the city," hopes to solve a peculiar housing problem.

This beautiful house, and others built along somewhat similar lines, will constitute so many invitations to "Come to Attleboro."

GOOD WEATHER A BAD WEATHER

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WEATHER is a common cause of complai ter how good or bad it is.

It is probably the most talked of su world, as it is the entering wedge to most conve

Mark Twain said that he had noticed that all body talked of the weather, as far as he could had been done about it.

In the Fall of 1924 the weather througho States was remarkably good and yet we have h complaints of it, especially from merchants.

The trouble, they said, was that the weather seasonable. It was not conducive to buying. No to buy an overcoat, and no woman a set of fu days were warm and summery. We needed a to ter in order to drum up trade. There may be this, but there is another side to it. The weather the merchants complain is good for farmers. It to be out of doors all day and to attend to the their crops and their farm duties. This enables more money and hence to have more to spend. The they can spend it is in the stores and so, eventually gets around to the merchants.

Thus it will be seen that what is bad weather of people is good for another. We must remember ever the day may be it always pleases somebody.

If we could all have our way we would have of weather at once. If we could get everything for, and we were all devout Christians, we would simultaneously for a hundred and fifty kinds of other words, there would be more weather in the the day could contain. The weather would be erratic than it is at present.

James Whitcomb Riley's dictum was that "Wh rain's my choice." That is a good attitude for all take. We should be happy in any kind of sent to us because no matter what we do or change it.

Current Events

The Bolshevik government, needing money, and receiving Communist complaints of certain monks at Pecherski monastery, arrests thirty of the monks and seizes their gold treasure of $400,000, hidden in the monastery belfries. In addition to the money, the Soviet government got 360 big diamonds, sacred images studded with gold, much gold and silver plate.

FROM THE SOVIET point of view, so far so good. But when the monks were sentenced to long terms at hard labor and put to work on the roads in their cassocks the peasants, deeply religious, started killing Communists and burning their buildings.

ONE OF NAPOLEON'S first and wisest acts was to restore the status of the church and the salaries and dignities of the clergy, saying that he also needed a spiritual gendarmerie.

ALL THE WORLD reads about the marvelous racing Finn, Nurmi. On Tuesday evening, in New York, he broke two world's indoor records. He's an iron man. He ran the mile in 4 minutes, 13 2-5 seconds, cutting a second off the world's record. Then he ran five thousand metres in 14 minutes, 44 3-5 seconds, again breaking the world's record. This man has wonderful legs.

BUT YOU CAN buy for a few hundred dollars an automobile that will do for civilization a thousand times what Nurmi could do.

Honor him, his legs, heart, lungs and courage, but honor still more highly such men as the late Steinmetz. A crippled hunchback, he could not have run five thousand metres in two hours. But his brain ran as well as Nurmi's legs ran. If, by the way, Steinmetz came to the United States today, a crippled Jewish boy, as he did forty or fifty years ago, he would be sent home.

WHY DOES the crowd pay to see fast legs and care less for a thinking brain? Because the crowd can all run. Not all can think.

IF YOU WANT a string of pink pearls for your wife, or friend, apply to young Mr. Leeds, son of the late Princess Anastasia. The pearls cost $340,000, not counting duty. Pearls have gone up. The price is a million dollars now.

FORTY-THREE BEAUTIFUL pink pearls, somebody will get them. The poor lady who wore them, as the wife of the Tin Plate King and then a Prince, brother of the Greek King, has gone. She has disappeared as completely as the various divers that brought them up, "going all naked to the hungry shark" in their pearl diving.

So glory passes, and pearls remain.

NO SIGN OF that "great 1925 drop in the stock market" yet. Stocks were up again yesterday, wheat up with them. And the interest rate on call money of speculation dropped to 2½ per cent.

The value of English money keeps going up. The pound was worth yesterday $4.77½, almost its pre-war value.

Some European moneys are worth more than the American dollar. But they haven't so many dollars. That must be our consolation.

GERMANS, NOT allowed to build airships, have threatened to shoot down French planes flying above Bavaria and Saxony—on the French air lines, from Paris to Bucharest and from Paris to Prague.
